CONFESSION IN WAKEFIELD DEATH CASE

O'MEARA MAY REAPPOINT SUPT. PIERCE

GRASSADONIA STATE WITNESS IN DEATH CASE

Luigi Grassadonia turned State evidence in the East Cambridge jail, and in court today, when put upon the witness stand, incriminated Biagio Falsone and Ignazio Morella, who had been on trial with him for the first degree murder of Maurice A. Albertson, the Lawrence jeweler, as committing the crime.

It was one of the most dramatic statements ever heard in a Massachusetts courtroom.

While Morella and Falsone, flanked in their cage by court officers, trembled and glared at their new accuser, Grassadonia told in English to Judge Irwin and jury what he claimed is all he knows about the murder.

Before he began his statement, District Attorney William J. Corcoran asked Grassadonia why he made it.

WANTS TO TELL THE TRUTH.

"Because," replied Grassadonia, dramatically placing a hand over his heart, "I want to clear my heart. I have a wife and family. I wanted to come into court and tell the truth."

Grassadonia then told how on the night of the day following the murder of Albertson, in a Wakefield shack, Falsone and Morella had come to his home and, rousing him from bed, told him they had killed Albertson and offered to divide the booty with him.

They had, he said, threatened his life to keep him silent.

Last night in jail he had made to a stenographer a statement which filled seventeen typewritten pages. His statement was made also in the presence of Sheriff John F. Fairbairn of Middlesex County, Assistant District Attorney Frank P. O'Donnell, State Officers Cyrus P. Smith and Thomas H. Eustace and Attorney Joseph Zotili, Grassadonia's counsel.

HELD ON CHAIN.

After making the statement in jail, the officers, sheriff and others took

CURLEY RETIRES PIERCE; O'MEARA MAY RESTORE

Superintendent of Police William H. Pierce will be retired at police roll-call tonight on a pension, but may later be reappointed to the office of superintendent by Police Commissioner O'Meara, according to a report in police circles this afternoon.

General orders from the commissioner are expected to be read tonight announcing the retirement because of Superintendent Pierce's age, and the same orders may place Lawrence Cain, present deputy superintendent, in charge of the police department, as acting superintendent.

If Superintendent Pierce is later reappointed, as this afternoon's report had it, the pension will be suspended and he will again receive his full pay of $5,000 a year.

PRECEDENT IN GRADY CASE.

It was explained that the reappointment would have a precedent in the case of Fire Commissioner Grady. When former Fire Chief Mullen was retired, Grady was made fire chief. Later he was retired on half-pay by Mayor Curley, who appointed him fire commissioner and suspended the pension.

Police Commissioner O'Meara said today:

The first news I had today was when the letter was received from the Mayor.

As to the candidates mentioned in the paper—Inspector John P. McGarr, Captain James P. Canney, Captain James H. Sullivan—all of the men, like all officers in the department, are good men.

Further than this, I have nothing to say at this time.

COMMENT BY PIERCE.

Superintendent of Police Pierce said:

This suggestion that the Commissioner could and might reappoint me is news to me. I had not thought of any such possibility and I cannot discuss it or my retirement by the Mayor.

The signing of the superintendent's retirement papers by Mayor Curley came as a surprise to the entire police department, and this, and gossip about possible appointments or a reappointment, formed the absorbing topic of conversation in police circles today.

Even the superintendent himself was surprised, it was said. Upon his retirement he becomes a civilian, but as such, under the law, can be reappointed by the commissioner if the latter so wishes. The law permits the commissioner to select a man outside the department for the office, if he cares to do so.

For some time the report has been persistent that as soon as the Mayor approved the retirement papers—in the Mayor's hands since the superintendent observed his sixty-fifth birthday last March 5—the commissioner would immediately reappoint Mr. Pierce to his office.

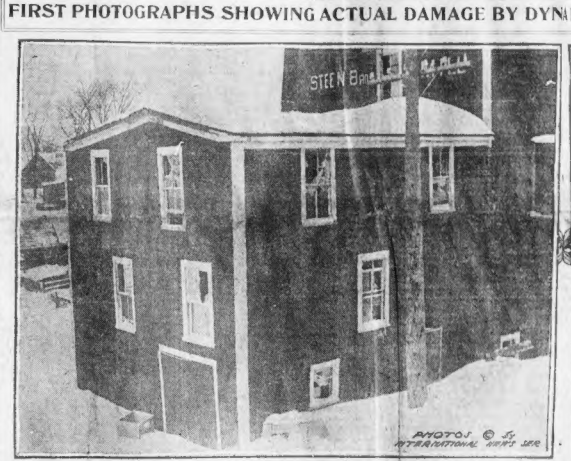

IMPORTANT CHANGES POSSIBLE.

One guess at police headquarters today was that Chief Inspector John R. McGarr would be the next superintendent. Other men mentioned were Captain James P. Sullivan of the City Hall avenue station, Captain Thomas F. Goode of the Back Bay station and Captain James P. Canney of the Lagrange street station. If any one of the four are to be chosen an important shifting about would result in the department.

For instance, if McGarr were to land the superintendency, Captain Ainsley C. Armstrong of Headquarters would probably become Chief Inspector of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, succeeding McGarr.

SEEK SCHMIDT IN MYSTERY OVER ALLEGED BOSTON PLOT

The identification by four persons of the photograph of Werner Horne, the Canadian bridge dynamiter, as that of Frank Schmidt, the man who was in Boston for several days, has resulted in a strange mystery.

Schmidt left Boston Monday. Horne was in Vanceboro, Me., before that time.

Representatives of the British government in Boston, stirred by the possible existence of a conspiracy for the wholesale destruction of British property, principally ships and bridges, are anxious to locate Schmidt.

They seek answers to the question: "If Schmidt is not Horne, who is he?"

"Where is he?"

"Where are his companions?"

While Horne has denied all knowledge of Schmidt, the belief has been expressed that he is concealing facts and that Schmidt and Horne had certain common purposes and were not unknown to each other.

Schmidt, who described himself as a lieutenant in the German reserve army, stopped for several days at Ketterer's Hotel in Boston, conferred frequently with three of his friends and aroused the suspicions of the British authorities by certain papers he left in his room at the hotel.

The stories told by the two men agreed in certain essentials, and at first it was the conviction that Horne was Schmidt. But officials declare this impossible, and say the positive identification of Horne's photograph was probably due to a close physical resemblance between the two men.

Schmidt admitted that four of his companions were still in Maine, but his lips were sealed as to where they were. The British authorities said they would like to question these four friends in the belief that they, too, might be able to throw some light on their theory of a conspiracy.

The authorities base their theory on a rough plan of the Boston waterfront found among Schmidt's belongings at the Boston hotel. On this plan were indicated the docks at which British liners are berthed, and there are pieces of paper bearing instructions which are apparently as to the easiest manner of reaching these docks.

Schmidt left the Boston hotel last Monday, saying he was going out of town. In his room there was found a piece of paper bearing the words:

"Tunnel for East Boston. Jeffries Point car."

A second piece of paper bore the words:

"Commercial Wharf steamers."

The first, it was claimed, would furnish information for any one desiring to reach the Cunard docks in East Boston, where the Leyland liner Etonian was then berthed. And the second, it was charged, would furnish information to reach the Commercial Wharf where the British-owned Plant line steamer Evangeline was docked.

HORNE HELD FOR DAMAGE DONE ON U. S. SOIL

By BERT FORD.

VANCEBORO, Me., Feb. 4.—The arrest of Werner Horne today on the charge of damaging local property, announcement that he would be tried at 3 this afternoon, and official word from Attorney-General W. H. Pattengall that no could be held pending extradition proceedings by the Canadian government were the high spots in the case of the young German who attempted to wreck the International bridge.

Attorney-General Pattengall's letter to Sheriff Ross follows:

Augusta, Me., Feb. 3, 1915.

George W. Ross, Esq., Vanceboro, Me.

Dear Sir: Replying to yours of the 2d, I have no question about your right to hold Horne pending extradition proceedings on the part of the Canadian government.

If any attempt is made to release him on habeas corpus proceedings, please notify me at once.

If there is any necessity to do so in connection with this case, telegraph or telephone me at my expense at any time. Very sincerely, W. H. PATTANGALL, Attorney-General.

Horne's arrest on a local charge was accomplished easily today in the immigration room at the railroad station on a warrant issued by Trial Justice George H. Smith of this town.

"WILFUL AND WANTON INJURY."

The charge is "wilful and wanton injury and defacement of buildings and certain parts of buildings in the town."

The young German officer will be tried on this warrant at 3 o'clock this afternoon probably in the depot detention room.

Local action has changed the status of Horne's case. It came when everybody here was expecting the prisoner's release.

State and Federal authorities had not given Deputy Sheriff George W. Ross any instructions and he became so impatient that he telegraphed to Attorney-General Pattengall at Augusta that he would free Horne immediately unless promptly advised to the contrary.

When the property owners in Vanceboro heard this they got busy. It had been freely advertised that the German had $100 in his pocket when captured. The explosion of eighty pounds of nitro-glycerine in a suitcase did not damage the Vanceboro bridge much, but it did play havoc with window glass, mirrors and brick-bats, much of the latter treasured as family heirlooms.

DEMAND PAY FOR DAMAGE.

The good people of Vanceboro didn't propose to let the man guilty of such destruction slip through their fingers without settling, if they could help it, and at least make him answer to the law for his work. They cared not for the mighty and perplexing international questions involved.

As Horace Kellog, the grocer, said:

BODY OF BOY IS FOUND IN CREEK

NEWBURYPORT, Feb. 4.—The body of Nicholas Woodward, the eighteen-year-old boy, who was carried down stream in Tuesday's storm, was today recovered in a small creek near Woodbridge's Island by a searching party led by two of the victim's brothers.

Young Woodward was out hunting last Tuesday and shot a bird which fell into the river. He jumped into a small boat at Ilings Island to go after the bird, but when he got out in the stream he found the storm too severe and was unable to get back to shore.

He drifted down to Woodbridge's Island where the searching party got their clew when they found the missing boat with the boy's gun and tracks in the snow, which led to the discovery of the body.

GERMANS DRIVE AT CHANNEL COAST

LONDON, Feb. 4.—The great German offensive movement in Northern France and Flanders, intended to smash the allies' line and drive to the channel coast, has begun in earnest, judging from the official reports issued today at Paris and Berlin.

Both reports describe fighting of great violence about Messines, in the Champagne district, and the Paris War Office gives details of a vigorous German attack along a twenty-mile front in the region of Lens and Bethune.

It is known that within the past three days the British War Office has sent to France 47,000 new troops for the purpose of stiffening the allies' defence against a German drive aimed at the capture of a coast stronghold, either Dunkirk, Calais or Boulogne.

Paris declares officially that French artillery has thus far checked the German assaults. The French Communique admits, however, that in the Champagne district, the enemy has succeeded in blowing up some French trenches north of Massiges. Berlin, referring to this

It's Easy to Own a Motor Car

It's simply a matter of looking into the many buying opportunities offered each day in the Want Ad section of the American. Under the heading "Used Cars and Accessories" you will find listed by both owners and dealers cars of every reliable make, size and description. Touring cars and runabouts, roadsters and electrics, motor wagons and motor trucks.

And in every instance the cars are capable of rendering good service. Most of the models are of recent date.

So if you really want a motor car there is no reason why you should wait any longer. The Boston American's "Used Car" column has practically removed the high price barrier.

Look through the listings every day. If you are in a hurry and don't find at once the car you have in your mind's eye, you can facilitate matters by writing a Want Ad of your own describing it. Then leave the ad with any of the American's Want Ad stations, the Branch Office at 264 Washington street, Main Office at 80 Summer street, or

"With the house owners in Vanceboro it's a simple question of putty and glass. I've sold out all my stock of window panes. There is a call for all sizes. Putty is shy."

"With the temperature so low, people can't have busted windows. Vanceboro has never seen such a window-mending carnival. That German volcano certainly strained dwellings hereabouts and the people sort of feel the German ought to pay or answer for it."

Sentiment was so strong that Sheriff Ross applied for a warrant.

Judge Smith stopped telegraphing at the railroad station long enough to make out the instrument, and explained to the reporters that the Vanceboro complaint was entirely independent of the grievances of the Canadian authorities.

"We have nothing to do with the attempt to blow up the bridge," he added. "That is the affair of the Dominion government. Our action relates solely to Horne's alleged conduct which resulted in injury to private property."

As soon as Sheriff Ross procured the warrant he served it on Horne, who accepted it as calmly as he has all other features of his boundary adventure.

County Attorney H. J. Dudley was consulted before today's town action. The penalty for the complaint preferred against Horne is a fine of $10 or thirty days in the lockup.

The Vanceboro officials deny that the Canadian Pacific Railroad influenced the local prosecution. They denied also that it was a "dodge" to extend the detention of the German.

An element of comedy has thus stolen into the bridge-wrecking attempt.

A local physician said to Justice Smith today: "Don't forget, Judge, that I've got a bill against the German for 75 cents for pulverized kitchen windows."

"Horne told me he was willing to settle for all the glass," said Judge Smith, "but he hasn't come across yet."

Horne has not had a telegram, letter or message of any sort from any friends or sympathizers since he was captured Tuesday morning. The first German visitor called on him this morning. He was a prosperous-looking young man who did not tell his name or mission. He and the prisoner held a long and whispered conversation in their native tongue. Horne seemed pleased to see him.

A cordon of secret service men and dominion constables about the immigration premises, to be on the alert when the German is released.

Just what place the Canadians have in establishing a guard on United States soil has not been disclosed, but there has not been an instant since Horne was placed in custody by the Maine officials that the Canadians have not been on the job. The German officer frequently glances at them through the grating of the detention room.

PARLIAMENT GUARDED.

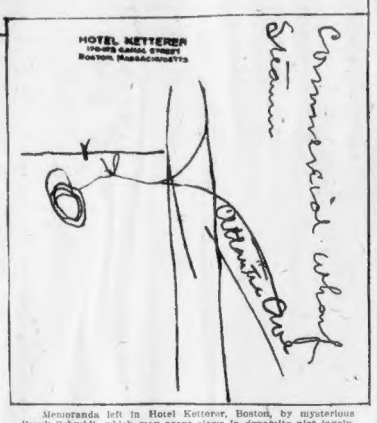

At Ottawa the Canadian Parliament which opened its sessions today was thoroughly guarded by the Dominion military, and there was an extra guard for the Duke of Connaught to prevent an attack upon him on his way to and from the Parliament building.

While these features were holding the attention of New England and Canadian authorities, at Washington negotiations continued between the British Ambassador, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice and Secretary of State Bryan over Great Britain's application for Horne's extradition to the Canadian government.

The German Ambassador was brought into these negotiations through Horne's appeal to him in a telegram from Vanceboro to Washington. In this message Horne said: "I am held here by Attorney General of Maine at the request of Canadian authorities who are trying to get extradition papers for me from Washington; please look after my interests in this matter as I am a German subject and did not put foot on Canadian soil."

Horne does not wear his coat or vest in the detention room. His gray flannel shirt, open at the throat, shows his fine physique to advantage. Everybody marvels at his build. He is a perfect specimen of man.

Dr. Stillman Johnson, who has been treating his frostbites, said today he feared Horne's right thumb would have to be amputated. Mortification has set in.

Memoranda left in Hotel Ketterer, Boston, by mysterious Frank Schmidt, which may prove clews in dynamite plot involving Werner Horne. The writing at the top indicates the route to the East Boston docks; the other diagram shows how to reach Commercial wharf and oceanwise shipping.

200,000 Troops for Relief of Przemysl

GENEVA, via Paris, Feb. 4.—A determined effort to relieve the besieged Austrian garrison of Przemysl with a German army is to be undertaken, according to a dispatch from Cracow.

This report states that the Governor of Cracow has been instructed by the Austrian General Staff to make preparations for the reception of 200,000 troops, which it is proposed to withdraw from the centre of the forces operating in Russian Poland.

The situation at Przemysl is reported to be desperate, with the garrison on the verge of starvation, as the result of the long investment by the Russians.

DRUGS AND WAR RUIN DOCTOR; BEGS MERCY

A remarkable plea for mercy was made to Judge Lummus in the Lynn court today by Dr. John Arthur Murphy, a twenty-eight-year old war refugee and self-confessed victim of the morphine habit.

After pleading guilty to trying to steal $75 from Petros Chiris, a Lynn merchant, by means of a "fake" telegram, the young physician told how he had conducted a hospital for morphine fiends at Paris, France, how he had himself become addicted to the drug, how when the war broke out he lost everything, how with funds furnished by the American Relief Committee he had come to Boston with his wife and their baby, and how, when in desperate straits, he had tried to steal money for his wife and child.

His plea was briefly his life story. Well dressed and evidently well educated, he arose in the prisoners' dock in the court and said:

WEARY OF LIVING.

"Your Honor, I am so sick and tired of life I don't know what I am doing. I am a morphine fiend.

"I have no money. I have a wife and child whom I love. They are living in Boston on Kneeland street.

"I will never repeat this crime. My life has been a failure.

"Up to the time the war broke out I had saved $3,000, which I made by running a hospital in Paris for those addicted to morphine.

"I contracted the habit myself. Then came the war. I lost all I had in the world—hospital and everything.

"I am the son of Thomas Murphy, who is a millionaire fruit merchant in Athens, Greece. My father left Ireland when he was young and settled in Greece. He married a Greek girl, my mother.

DISOWNED FOR MARRIAGE.

"After I graduated from a French medical college four years ago I returned to Greece. In Athens I, too, married a Greek girl. This was contrary to my father's wishes, and I was practically disowned and my wife and I faced the world to make our own way.

"We went to Paris, where a daughter was born to us. After the war started, we were in need, and the American Relief Committee advanced us $237.50. We came to this country. It was not my first trip, for I was in Boston six years ago.

"Really, I didn't know how to make a living when first left to shift for myself. The hospital idea proved successful, but lacking funds on the start I could not hire the necessary assistants. The result was that I overworked, and my nerves began to show signs of the strain.

"In desperation, I, who was trying to cure other morphine fiends, took the drug myself. I took a little at first, then increased the amount.

STARVATION PROMPTS CRIME.

"The result? Today my body is completely covered with the punctures of the needles. No man living knows how I have suffered.

"Then when starvation faced us, I tried to steal this money to buy food for my wife and child.

"For God's sake, Your Honor, give me this last chance. I have to a great extent mastered my desire for morphine, for I have battled with the habit, and I know I shall succeed. Today after several years of its use, I take very little."

Then Murphy sat down.

"I sentence you to the Concord Reformatory," said Judge Lummus, "and I suspend the sentence. You are to be placed on probation until February 2, 1916."

GRATEFUL FOR PROBATION.

"Your Honor," I am grateful, very, very thankful, to you, "said Murphy.

The police said that documents they found in the young man's pockets proved most of his statements. It was stated that Murphy had funds tied up in a Paris bank as a result of the war, and other papers showed he had received the sum he stated from the American Relief Committee at Paris.

When he was in the dock, Murphy was handed a letter addressed to him care of Petros Chiris, the merchant he had tried to rob. Murphy admitted he had written this letter to himself to further his attempt to get the $75 out of Chiris.

Murphy had previously sent a telegram to the Lynn merchant, signing the name of P. Apostolu of Boston. The message requested Chiris to pay Murphy $75. The merchant became suspicious, telephoned Apostolu and reported the matter to the Lynn police.

Billie Burke Under Knife Rallies After Operation

Engagement Here Is Broken. Hopes to Get Back on Stage Within a Month.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Miss Billie Burke (in private life Mrs. Florenz Ziegfeld), the brilliant comedienne and one of the best known actresses in the country, was operated upon last night at Mrs. Anderson's sanitarium here. Mr. Ziegfeld announced last night that the operation was successful and that Miss Burke would resume her place at the head of her company in three weeks or a month.

Miss Burke was stricken while playing at the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, on Tuesday evening. An urgent message was sent to her husband at the New Amsterdam Theatre. With Dr. Arthur S. Bissell of No. 69 East Fifty-sixth street he boarded the next train to Boston. Dr. Bissell did not think that her condition was serious enough to have an operation performed at Boston and had her removed to this city. They arrived here at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

Miss Burke is one of the leading Frohman stars and is often referred to as "the most bewitching actress on the stage." She was married to Mr. Ziegfeld at Hoboken April 11 last.

Suicide Threats Break Up 2 Homes

MARION, Ind., Feb. 4.—Wearied by the constant "mad fits" thrown by her husband, as claimed, when he threatened to end his life by means of a gun, razor, poison or gas, Mrs. James T. Van Hook wants a divorce from her husband. Marie T. Steelman, who also wants a divorce, alleges her husband, Charles O. Steelman, often pretends suicide. She declares he drank whisky while asserting he was taking carbolic acid.

VERDICT AGAINST COACHMAN ONLY

In four suits for $20,000 brought by Mrs. Olga Lunderkin, Miss Carrie Lunderkin and Mrs. Florence L. Nutting of East Dedham against Mrs. Edith M. Safford, wife of Nathaniel Safford, a wealthy retired Boston business man, and John H. Tucker, her coachman, for assault and battery, a jury in Norfolk Superior Court today at Dedham brought in a sealed verdict.

The jury was out for some hours.

Two suits against Mrs. Safford were dismissed. Mrs. Olga Lunderkin was awarded a verdict of $125 against Tucker and Miss Carrie Lunderkin was given a verdict of $5 against Tucker.

The case is the outcome of a visit to the Lunderkin home at East Dedham on January 29, 1914, by Mrs. Safford, Tucker and two other men in search for Mr. Safford. Mr. Safford is seventy-four and his wife is about thirty-five.

Mr. Safford is reputed to be worth upwards of a million. His property is handled by conservators.

Vanderbilt $100,000 Necklace Loaned

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The $100,000 pearl necklace, which was lost by Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt in front of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel last December, adorned for one evening the fair throat of Mrs. Lillian G. Gough, according to an affidavit presented by her husband, Joseph Gough, before Vice-Chancellor Stevens in Newark yesterday.

John J. Collins, a New York Central clerk, was the man who found the necklace and returned it, receiving as a reward from Mr. Vanderbilt five $1,000 New York Central bonds.

Collins was named yesterday by Mr. Gough as the writer of an endearing letter to Mrs. Gough. And the husband says also that on the evening the pearl necklace was found, Collins took Mrs. Gough to see "Twin Beds," and "she wore a pearl necklace belonging to a member of the Vanderbilt family."

House Democrats Caucus Tonight

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Democratic members of the House will caucus tonight to perfect their organization for the coming Congress. Speaker Clark will have no opposition to succeed him, according to the leaders, and Representatives Foster of Illinois and Saunders of Virginia are the most likely candidates for caucus chairman to succeed A. Mitchell Palmer, who retires. It is generally understood that Representative Claude Kitchen of North Carolina, will succeed Representative Underwood as Democratic floor leader. McGillicuddy of Maine will probably succeed Mitchell of Massachusetts on the Ways and Means Committee.

Lake Liner Sinks; 50 Persons Saved

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—The steamship Iowa of the Goodrich line, running between Chicago and Lake Michigan ports, sank off Chicago harbor at 11 a. m. today. Fifty persons on board the Iowa made the perilous journey over the slush ice to the recreation pier at the outer edge of the harbor. The Iowa, with six other boats, has been lodged in an ice jam about three miles off short for the past three days, but was not thought to be in any serious difficulty. Several of the other boats managed to fight their way out of the ice jam last night and early today, but the Iowa was unable to move.

Dr. Hunsberger to Speak on Antarctic

Sir Douglas Mawson's lecture at Tremont Temple, on "Racing With Death in Antarctic Blizzards," will be continued by Dr. W. A. Hunsberger, vice-president of International Peace Forum. The same wonderful motion pictures and still views will be used by Dr. Hunsberger, and while in substance his lecture will be the same as that delieverd by Sir Douglas, it will be more detailed and many heroic deeds of the intrepid explorer will be disclosed, that, through a sense of modesty, the explorer himself refused to mention in his addresses.

Georgia Doctor Is Shot to Death

AUGUSTA, Ga., Feb. 4.—Dr. Culverson, a practicing physician at Evans, twelve miles from Augusta, was shot to death by citizens of the neighborhood early today. Culverson was charged with attacking the daughter of the magistrate at Martinez, a few miles away.

Diamond Shoals Wreck Yacht Idler

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The wreck on Diamond shoals, off Cape Hatteras, was identified definitely today as that of the yacht Idler. The keeper of the coast guard station at Cape Hatteras telegraphed headquarters here that a pair of blankets marked "Idler" had washed ashore from the submerged vessel.

GERMANS LAUNCH NEW DRIVE AIMED AT THE CHANNEL COAST

operation, states that three successive French trenches were taken along a front of more than a mile and a half, these constituting "the main French position."

The Berlin report claims that in the fighting around Massiges the Germans captured seven officers, 601 soldiers and eighteen guns, together with a large quantity of war material.

The Berlin report denies the Russian claim of successes in the Carpathians and asserts that the Austro-Hungarian and German forces have made a series of gains in the mountainous country.

TOOK FRENCH TRENCHES.

The German official report follows:

"On the front, between the North Sea and Rheims, there were only artillery duels yesterday. Renewed French attacks near Perthes were repulsed with losses for the enemy.

"North and northwest of Massiges, northwest of St. Menehould, the Germans attacked yesterday. They stormed three successive trenches, one behind the other and occupied the main French position on a front of two kilometres (about 1 1-5 miles). All the French counter attacks which continued during the night were repulsed.

Seven officers and 601 soldiers were taken prisoners. Nine machine guns, nine smaller guns and much material were also taken.

"In the Central Vosges the first engagement of the German Ski troops against the French chasseurs resulted successfully for the Germans.

"In East Prussia feeble Russian attacks against the German position south of the Memel River were repulsed.

"In Poland, north of the Vistula, there were skirmishes of small mixed detachments, connected with the cavalry fights already reported.

"South of Sochaczew, repeated night attacks by the Russians broke down as a result of their heavy losses. The German advance in the Bolimow region is progressing in spite of violent Russian counter attacks. The number of prisoners is increasing.

"In the Carpathian Mountains for some days the Germans have been fighting shoulder to shoulder with the Austro-Hungarian armies. The allied troops obtained a series of good successes in the difficult, snow-covered mountainous country."

DESTROY BLOCK HOUSES.

The text of the French official communique follows:

"To the north of the Lys there was an artillery combat yesterday, this being particularly violent in the region of Nieuport.

"At Notre Dame de Lorette, southwest of Lens, a German attack launched on the afternoon of February 3 was rolled back by the fire of our artillery, which likewise arrested a bombardment directed against the road between Arras and Bethune. In the region of Albert and of Quesnoy-en-Santerre we destroyed several block houses.

"Throughout the valley of the Aisne there was an artillery combat in which we gained the advantage.

"The three attacks reported last night against our trenches in the region of Perthes, Mesnil-les-Hurlus and Massiges were made by forces of the enemy equal to a battalion at each point. The troops engaged in the first two were dispersed under the fire of our artillery. The third, north of Massiges, took advantage of the explosion of a mine to force itself forward. The entire position was retaken by us. New trenches were built by us at a distance of several yards from those which the German mine had wrecked, and which had become uninhabitable.

"The day was calm in the Argonne. In the Woevre and in the valley of the Seille we obtained some success in advance guard engagements and dispersed some convoys of the enemy.

TRANSPORTS CLOSELY GUARDED.

"In the Vosges there were some encounters between Ski patrols and our troops made some slight progress to the southeast of Kolschlag, northwest of Hartmannsweiler Kopf. A thaw has begun."

General Joffre, commander-in-chief of the allied armies, and Field Marshal Sir John French, commander of the British expeditionary forces, learned through spies and the allied aerial services that the Germans had been massing men and artillery along the northern front for about ten days.

An armada of torpedo boat destroyers, swift cruisers and submarines guarded the British transports carrying the 47,000 British reinforcements while crossing the channel to protect them from German submarines which are prowling through the English Channel, the Irish Sea and the North Sea.

PRAISE FOR CANADIANS.

Letters received from the western front are unanimous in praise of the Canadian troops that have joined the British army in France. Princess Patricia's regiment has been under fire four times. Captain Fitzgerald and Lieutenant Price were picked off by German sharpshooters in a recent engagement.

The regiment has been holding an exposed position recently and fourteen of the privates have been killed and twenty wounded. Among those killed were Privates Roper, McLeod, McNish, Leach and Houston. Captain Gray has been invalided because of a severe attack of rheumatism.

RUSSIANS ADVANCING.

Important successes for the Russian armies operating in East Prussia and northern Poland are announced in an official statement issued at Petrograd today. In East Prussia the Czar's troops, despite desperate resistance by the Germans, have succeeded in crossing the Angerap river and have captured fortified positions, while in northern Poland they have captured the town of Skempe, only 33 miles from the great fortress of Thorn.

West of Warsaw, in the vicinity of Bolimow and Goumin, the Germans are continuing their terrific attacks upon the Russian lines. In their operations there the Germans are using about 42,000 men in their furious attacks. The Germans are suffering heavy losses, but are bringing up fresh troops to replace the killed and injured.

Fighting is still going on in the Carpathians. The Germans helping the Austrians there have also been reinforced.

The official statement says: "The Russians in East Prussia have occupied fortified positions at Gross Medunishken on the left bank of the Angerap, and have succeeded in crossing after obstinate resistance. Fighting is becoming more frequent there and more extensive.

"On the right bank of the Vistula (northern Poland) fighting is proceeding on the Lipno-Biezun front. The Russians have captured Skempe and repelled the enemy from Blinov with heavy loss. We captured the commander of German battalion, three other officers and 100 men.

HARD FIGHTING AT GOUMINE.

"Vigorous fighting is in progress on the second Vistula front which runs through Borzhy, Goumine, Tartak and Bolimow (west and southwest of Warsaw). The enemy's first line here consists of more than fourteen regiments (42,000 men) together with large artillery. The heavy artillery is shelling our positions day and night.

"The fighting at Goumine is especially stubborn. The enemy's hand to hand attacks have been repelled. (The German general staff has announced the capture of Goumine.)

"The enemy's demonstrations on the Nida River (Southern Poland) have failed. Fighting in the Carpathians is progressing. The Germans have been reinforced in this region."

The capture of Skempe shows that the Russian drive toward Thorn is meeting with success, while the crossing of the Angerap River in East Prussia brings the Czar's troops within striking distance of Insterberg, the capture of which would permit the launching of a campaign against Koenigsberg.

The Russian offensive in Prussia has driven the Germans back more than thirty miles.

TURKS BEATEN AT SUEZ.

For the first time the Turks have actually reached the Suez Canal, regarded as one of the most vital points in England's chain of empire. They have been driven back, however, although winning their way to the canal itself at two points, one near Toussoum, thirty-five miles from the port of Suez, the other at Ismalia on Lake Timsah, which is on the canal.

At Toussoum the Turks brought building material to the canal banks and had started bridging operations, when they were attacked by the British and fled, leaving the material behind. A number of Turks were drowned in the canal.

At Ismalia the battle was fought during a desert sand storm. Six British were wounded. The Turks fought with vigor, but their shooting, both with rifles and artillery, was bad.

The Turks also attacked again on the El Kantara front, forty miles south of Port Said. They lost sixteen in killed and wounded and forty were taken prisoners. British casualties consisted of three wounded.

DROP BOMBS ON ADRIANOPLE.

French aviators, operating from the international fleet at the western entrance to the Dardanelles, have bombarded the Turkish city of Adrianople where they did effective execution, according to a dispatch from Salonika.

Adrianople is about 120 miles from the point in the Aegean Sea where the French and British warships are carrying on their bombardment. It would be easy for the airmen to keep over Turkish waters and Turkish soil in making the flight without menacing the neutrality of Bulgaria, whose soil now extends south to the Aegean.

TURKS EVACUATE TABRIZ.

Denial is made at Constantinople of Russian reports that the Turks were driven out of Tabriz by the Czar's cossacks. It is stated that the Turks evacuated the city in accordance with an agreement with the Persian government. About 500 Persians gendarmes (part of the Persian army organized by W. Morgan Shuster, the American, who was formerly connected with the Persian government) are in Tabriz under command of Swedish officers.

Boer rebels throughout South Africa are surrendering rapidly. It was announced at Capetown today that Commander Kemp and his force had yielded to the troops of the Union without fighting, while a dispatch from Pretoria tells of the surrender of Burgher Martiz's soldiers at Kokomas.

THREE MEN ACCUSED OF WAKEFIELD KILLING.

The man between the two officers is Biagio Falzone; handcuffed together are Ignagio Morella, at left, and Luigi Grassadonia, who has turned State's evidence incriminating the other two.

BLIND MAN'S SEVEN SONS IN FRENCH ARMY AND ALL ARE KILLED

GENEVA, Feb. 4.—Seven sons of an elderly blind Frenchman named Chopard of the village of Chauffout, near the Swiss frontier, were called to the colors last August and marched away to war. For a long while the father heard nothing from them. Becoming alarmed, he applied for assistance to the bureau here for the exchange of information regarding prisoners of war. One by one letters from the French headquarters arrived in Geneva. The seven sons had been killed, leaving fourteen children and four widows.

Saw '1,500 German Mutineers Chained'

BERNE, Feb. 4.—A Swiss citizen just returned, says life would be highly monotonous but for the occasional passage of troops or of rebellious soldiers, more than 1500 of whom he saw "arrive in Brussels chained together with heavy chains in three different convoys, most of them being Bavarians."

DRAMATIC STORY OF CRIME TOLD

Grassadonia in an automobile to his home at No. 19 Hart street, Wakefield. On the way there the prisoner was handcuffed, but on reaching the house the handcuffs were removed and Grassadonia was held in leash by a chain wound around his body.

A pick had been taken in the auto and after the party had entered the house Grassadonia ripped up a door sill with the implement, revealing a blood-stained stiletto. The State officials believe it is the weapon with which Albertson was murdered.

Leading his guards to the kitchen, he ripped up the floor with the pick and disclosed a gold hunting case watch, which, he said, was part of the loot taken from Albertson. In the back yard, near a small ledge, he dug up a bunch of keys and a jewelry card belonging to the victim.

When the statement was offered to the Court, as soon as it resumed its sitting this morning, Judge Irwin suggested that it would be better for Grassadonia to take the witness stand.

This was done after a conference between Court and counsel. But before he was allowed to testify, District Attorney Corcoran, stating that he had made his disclosure without expectation of clemency, his case was taken from the jury.

This was upon motion by the district attorney, but Attorney Thomas J. Brady, counsel for Morella, objected to this, and his objection was saved by the Court.

On the witness stand Grassadonia testified: "On December 17 Falzone offered me $2 to take him to Albertson's store in Lawrence, telling me he wanted to buy some jewelry.

"On the way he showed me a letter from his mother in Italy, in which she said she was going to sell her home and come to America with her two daughters. Falzone said, 'She is going to bring me a good girl to marry.' Falzone said he was going to buy some jewelry for the girl he was going to marry.

"I was well acquainted with Albertson and introduced Falzone to him when he got to the store. I explained Falzone wanted to buy good jewelry and Albertson showed watches, lockets and chains.

"But Falzone had no money and did not buy. Albertson would not trust him. No appointment was made to bring Albertson to Wakefield, but he told me he was coming the following Sunday on a regular trip.

"On Friday night, December 18, as I was going to bed, Falzone came to my house and tapped on the window. He wanted to borrow a pick I had borrowed of another man. Morella was with him. On Sunday morning I went to the square to meet Albertson, but did not see him. But he came to my house later to collect the $2 I owed him. I paid him and I never saw him alive again. Afterward I went to No. 34 Columbia road and played cards there until 6 o'clock and went home.

"On Monday night, December 21, Falzone and Morella came to my house and knocked on the window. Morella carried a pillow case, and when he got in dumped from it upon the kitchen table watches, rings and other jewelry.

Falzone had pushed my head back with one hand and with the other held a stiletto at my throat. 'Do you want to live?' he said. 'Then keep your mouth shut. Albertson, the jewelry man, is killed.'

ASK $60,000 IN 3 LOST LOVE SUITS

Three suits alleging alienation of affection, in which the damages are set at $60,000, have just been filed in the Suffolk Superior Court.

Charles T. Cutter of Beacon street seeks to recover $25,000 from Dr. Almon Cooper of Brookline for the alleged alienation of the affections of his wife, from whom he obtained a divorce five years ago.

Cutter is a well-known architect, while Dr. Cooper is one of the best-known physicians in Brookline.

As soon as Mrs. Cutter secured her divorce she married Dr. Cooper, who divorced his first wife on the grounds of desertion.

Arthur Rutstein of Boston asks $25,000 from Theodore Quinlan of Needham for alleged alienation of his wife's affections.

Agnes M. Farrell of Chelsea has brought a $10,000 suit against Norah M. Farrell of No. 139 Winthrop avenue, Revere, for the alleged alienation of the affections of the plaintiff's husband, John B. Farrell.

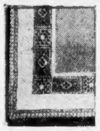

The plaintiff alleges that on December 24, 1914, and on divers dates between June 3, 1914, and the bringing of the suit, the defendant through misrepresentations concerning the plaintiff, her whereabouts and doings and by other reflections on her, alienated and destroyed the husband's affections.

Say Dorchester Man Passed Bogus Checks

Search is being made for Edwin G. McDonald of Dorchester, who, it is alleged, passed two bogus checks for $205 on banks in Biddeford, Me. After cashing the checks in the Maine banks, McDonald disappeared, leaving $120 on deposit in one of the banks.

VILLA BECOMES MEXICO DICTATOR

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 4. — General Francisco Villa announced today that he had assumed the entire political power of the North and practically declared himself president of this district. On assuming this power he has organized a goverment for the northern district over which he has control and has appointed a cabinet.

This anouncement was sent to agents at Washington to inform the American government and a lengthy telegram was received by General Villa's border agent from Secretary of State Bryan to forward to Villa. It is believed the message has an important bearing on Villa's attitude in assuming the constitutional power.

VILLA FOR PRESIDENT.

While General Villa has not yet announced that he will accept the provisional presidency, it is believed that the convention which has been the dominant political force in Northern Mexico for several months will elect him to that position.

General Villa's message that he had assumed the political authority was received late last night.

A few hours later he telegraphed that troops loyal to the convention had defeated Carranzista forces in a three-day battle in the State of Jalisco. The convention troops were commanded by General Augustin Estrada. They numbered 4,000 men. The Carranzista leader had nearly double that number, but they were routed with heavy losses in killed and wounded. Estrada's forces captured a large quantity of munitions.

VILLA CHOOSES CABINET.

That Villa intends to establish a strong government is shown by his first cabinet selections. They are M. Diaz Lombardo, Foreign Minister and Minister of Justice; General Luis de la Garza Cardenas, Minister of State and Commerce, and Francisco Escudero, Minister of Finance and Industry.

Senor Lombardo, who is a lawyer, was in the cabinet of President Madero. Afterwards he was in the diplomatic service, and when Villa became a power in Mexico he became one of Villa's advisers.

Senor Escudero was Minister of Finance in the first cabinet formed by General Venustiano Carranza. After leaving the cabinet he returned to Mexico City to practice law. He became prominent in the affairs of the Liberal party and was one of a commission that tried unsuccessfully to patch up the differences between Villa and Carranza. When William Bayard Hale was sent to the border about a year ago by President Wilson Escudero conducted the negotiations on behalf of Carranza. Escudero was always a believer in Villa, and when the latter broke with Carranza Escudero went to Northern Mexico to become an adviser of Villa.

General Cardenas was a member of the Chamber of Deputies from Chihuahua during the Madero regime. He has been attached to Villa's staff since the latter became a prominent figure in Mexico.

OBREGON GOES TO THE FRONT.

Advices from Mexico City state that General Alvaro Obregon has opened a campaign against General Villa's troops north of the capital, with the purpose of driving the convention's forces into Northern Mexico and preventing them from reaching Tampico. General Obregon will go to the front and take personal command in the campaign against the Villaistas. Only sufficient troops will be kept at the capital to keep hostile Zapatistas from making and raids there.

PRICE OF WHEAT STILL SOARING

Another boost in the price of May wheat was started today. At the opening of the market wheat opened at $1.60 but rapidly reached $1.62 and was still soaring. The advance over the opening price was made in less than an hour.

The protest which has arisen all over the country has strengthened hope that the top price for wheat has been reached and that it will not be necessary for all bakers to ask more for bread. Small bakers are averse to asking 6 cents for a 5-cent loaf, or 11 or 12 for a 10-cent loaf. They realize not only the hardship it will inflict upon the poor, but how much resentment on the part of the public will be aroused.

CONGRESS MAY ACT.

Chicago and New York retailers, as a rule, have already advanced prices for bread. Dealers say that the best brands of flour can be bought in this market for $9.50 a barrel. If wheat stays up, however, the prices of flour will probably go higher. If flour goes up much more there is going to be, it is stated at Washington, a great effort to have Congress pass an act to forbid exportation of wheat for a while.

Such a proposition will be fought by agricultural and elevator interests. The farmers are particularly strong with members of the present Congress. It would mean a legislative fight between farming and industrial regions. It is claimed that an embargo upon exportation of foodstuffs would do more to bring about peace in Europe than anything else the United States could do.

This country is practically feeding France and England now. The governments of these countries are not haggling over the price of either wheat for flour now. They will pay any price to stave off famine, if the war is to last long.

WAR CAUSES RAISE.

If Russian ships could get through the Dardanelles, many millions of Russian wheat would be released for the west of Europe markets. That would lessen the demand for the American product and undermine high prices here. The wheat men in this country justify advances in the face of the greatest crop ever reaped in the United States by the war in Europe.

Another restraining influence upon further advance in the price of wheat may be the Federal investigation started in Chicago. The Federal probers are going to learn just how much wheat there is in Chicago and other elevators, how much has been exported, and, if possible, how much farmers have held back to obtain highest possible prices.

NO BOSTON ADVANCE.

About 400 small bakers in Chicago have advanced the price of small loaves from 5 to 6 cents. Large ones are expected to follow when the low-priced flour they bought months ago is exhausted.

Boston bakers declare they have no intention of putting up the price of bread until absolutely forced to. Sealer of Weights and Measures Woolley says that while his inspectors have found no short weight loaves in this city, many loaves that in the past have been heavier and fuller than the law requires have been reduced to the weight demanded by law, or to a margin close above it.

Figures gathered by experts and not disputed by the grain traders themselves prove that there does not exist in this country, and has not existed since the war, a shortage of wheat. They show that exports at the present rate of 8,000,000 bushels a week can continue practically up to the time of harvesting the 1915 crop without depleting the adequate supply of wheat in this country both for consumption as food and for use as seed wheat.

Reassurance is given the situation by the statements of exporters that, regardless of European demand, the tide of exports cannot be greatly increased above the present proportions because of the physical impossibility of obtaining cargo bottoms to float much larger quantities of grain and flour.

MUCH MORE PLANTED.

The United States Department of Agriculture's figures forecasting the 1915 crop add an additional note of strong optimism to the situation. They show that there has been an increase of 4,100,000 acres in the amount of Winter wheat planted for harvesting this year.

The weather so far has been ideal for Winter wheat, and a bumper crop, perhaps even exceeding last year's enormous yield of nineteen bushels to the acre, is predicted. Figuring conservatively, however, upon a fifteen-bushel yield, 61,500,000 additional bushels of winter wheat alone should be harvested this year.

Crop experts say that the spring wheat yield, allowing for only average good fortune, should also be increased not less than 40,000,000 bushels, figuring on the basis of the increase in winter wheat. If the forecast is correct, this country will harvest in 1915 100,000,000 bushels more than last year's record crop.

In other words, 1,000,000,000 bushels of wheat—enough to supply America and furnish a surplus of nearly 416,000,000 bushels for export—are expected to begin pouring into the country's granaries before last year's crop has been exhausted.

GOVERNMENT FIGURES.

Government figures show that last year's wheat crop was 891,017,000 bushels. The surplus wheat in 1913 was 77,000,000 bushels giving a total available supply of 965,000,000 bushels.

The per capita consumption of flour for the entire population of 100,000,000 persons is one barrel annually. Figuring liberally, mill experts say that five bushels of wheat are required to produce each of these barrels, the country's annual consumption of wheat for food being then 500,000,000 bushels.

As 84,000,000 bushels is the government estimate of the amount of seed wheat required, the United States total requirements are brought to 584,000,000 bushels. Thus, an excess of 316,000,000 bushels are available for export, though a part of that should be reserved until the exact proportions of next year's crop are known.

Since July 1, 1914—shortly before the war began—the United States has exported 208,000,000 bushels of wheat. It has left 108,000,000 bushels that it can readily spare for Europe, though some statisticians place the figure as high as 144,000,000.

Using the lower figure as a basis of calculation, if exports continue from these shores at the rate of 8,000,000 bushels a week, the surplus cannot possibly be exhausted for thirteen weeks, or some time in May.

WHEAT PRICES "FICTITIOUS."

The following figures, millers and bakers say, prove present wheat prices are "fictitious, sentimental and speculative," and based upon a shortage which cannot actually occur, if at all, before next May, nine months after the price began to soar:

	Bushels.
United States wheat crop for 1914	819,017,000
Carried over from 1913	77,000,000
Available supply	968,000,000

	Bushels.
Per capita consumption of flour, one barrel annually, of 100,000,000 barrels needed by the country. Five bushels of wheat needed to produce each barrel. Total needed for food	500,000,000
Need for seed wheat (government estimate)	84,000,000
Total requirements	584,000,000
Surplus for export	316,000,000
Exported July 1 to February 1	208,000,000
Available for export	108,000,000

Present average rate of export is 8,000,000 bushels a week, which shipping experts say cannot be increased because vessels cannot be obtained. At this rate the export supply cannot be exhausted before some time in May, shortly before 1915 wheat begins to be harvested.

Bakers and millers assert these figures prove the price, which began to go up last July, has been boosted nine months before a possible shortage would justify famine prices.

Experts say relief of the Dardanelles blockade of Russian wheat or better facilities for handling the Argentine surplus probably will relieve the situation long before an actual shortage exists.

WILSON WOULD AID BUSINESS

Declares All Must Pool Interests in Order to Solve Public Problems.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Co-operation between business and the government in framing laws for the benefit of all the people was urged by President Wilson last night in an address before several hundred representative business men here attending the annual convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. He declared that "we must all pool our interests" in order to discover the best means for handling public problems.

Speaking of the foreign trade of the United States, the President asked that business men devise some way of allowing exporters in the United States to combine to secure common selling agencies and to give long time credits in such a way that co-operative devices may be open to the use of all. He declared that apparently the anti-trust laws prohibited such combinations now but that he would favor a change if a method fair to all could be found. He spoke of the work being done by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in "surveying the world" for the benefit of all business men.

The Mexican question was mentioned by Mr. Wilson as an example of the difficulty he had in getting accurate information.

In this connection he said:

"Of course, I learn a great many things that are not so. But the interesting thing about it is this: Things that are not so do not match. If you hear enough of them you see there is no pattern whatever. It is a crazy quilt. Whereas the truth always matches, piece for piece, with other parts of the truth.

"No man can lie consistently and he cannot lie about everything if he talks to you long. So that I would guarantee that if enough liars talked to you, you would get the truth.

"I had somewhat that experience about Mexico, and that was about the only way in which I learned anything that was so, for there have been vivid imaginations and many special interests which have depicted things as they wished me to believe them to be."

Referring to the war, President Wilson said:

"There are a great many dreadful things about war, as nobody needs to be told in this day of distress and of terror. But there is one thing about war which has a very splendid side, and that is the consciousness that a whole nation gets that they must all act as a unit, for the nation; and when peace is as handsome as war there will be no war. When men, I mean, engage in the pursuits of peace in the same spirit of self-sacrifice and of conscious service for the community with which, at any rate, the common soldier engages in war, then shall there be wars no more. You have moved the vanguard for the United States in the purposes of this association just a little nearer that ideal. That is the reason I am here—because I believe that.

"There is a specific about which I, for one, want your advice. Let me say, if I may say it without disrespect, that I do not think you are prepared to give it right away. You will have to make some rather extended inquiries before you are ready to give it. What I am thinking of is co-operation in foreign markets as between the merchants of different nations.

"I speak of the subject with a certain degree of hesitation because the thing fartherest from my thought is taking advantage of nations now disabled from playing the full part in that co-operation and seeking a sudden selfish advantage because they are for the time being disabled. Pray believe me that we ought to eliminate all that thought from our minds and consider this matter as if we and the other nations of the world were in the normal circumstances of commerce. This is a normal circumstance of commerce in which we are apparently at a disadvantage.

"Our anti-trust laws apparently—I say apparently because the attorney-general is present, and I am not sure whether I am right—the anti-trust laws of the United States apparently make it illegal for merchants in the United States to form combinations for the purpose of strengthening themselves in taking advantages of the opportunities of foreign co-operation. That is a very serious matter for this reason:

"There are some corporations and some firms, for all I know, whose business is great enough and whose resources are abundant enough to enable them to establish selling agencies in foreign countries, to enable them to extend the long credits which in some cases are necessary in order to keep the trade they desire; which enables them, in other words, to organize their business in foreign territory in a way which the smaller man cannot afford to do. His business has not grown big enough to permit him to establish selling agencies. The expert commission merchants, perhaps, taxes him a little bit too high to make that an available competitive means of conducting and extending the business. The question arises, therefore, how are the smaller merchants, how are the younger and weaker corporations going to get a foothold as against the combinations which are permitted and even encouraged by foreign governments in this very field of competion?

"What I would like very much to be shown, therefore, is a method of co-operation which is not a method of combination; not that the two words are mutually exclusive, but we have come to have a special meaning attached to the word 'combination.'"

KEEP LIVER AND BOWELS REGULAR WITH CASCARETS

No more Headache, Bad Colds, sour stomach and constipation.

Get a 10-cent box now.

No odds how bad your liver, stomach or bowels; how much your head aches, how miserable and uncomfortable you are from constipation, indigestion, biliousness and sluggish bowels—you always get the desired results with Cascarets.

Don't let your stomach, liver and bowels make you miserable. Take Cascarets tonight; put an end to the headache, biliousness, dizziness, nervousness, sick, sour, gassy stomach, backache and all other distress; cleanse your inside organs of all the bile, gases and constipated matter which is producing the misery.

A 10-cent box means health, happiness and a clear head for months. No more days of gloom and distress if you will take a Cascaret now and then. All druggists sell Cascarets. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a gentle cleansing, too.—Advertisement.

Relief for Catarrh Sufferers Now FREE

You Can Now Treat This Trouble in Your Own Home and Get Relief at Once.

By the new method the nose and throat are treated by an effective local remedy applied directly to the afflicted membranes.

The Elixir, taken into the stomach, has a direct influence upon the mucous membranes of the body and cures the disease by removing the cause.

How the Remedy for Catarrh Was Discovered.

THIS terrible disease has raged unchecked for years simply because symptoms have been treated while the cause of the trouble has been left to circulate in the blood, and bring the disease back as fast as local treatments could relieve it.

C. E. Gauss, who experimented for years on a treatment for Catarrh, found that after perfecting a balm that relieved the nose and throat troubles quickly, he could not prevent the trouble beginning all over again.

On test cases, he could completely remove all signs of Catarrh from nose and throat, but in a few weeks they were back.

Careful experiments and investigations have shown that as the troubles were expelled from the nose and throat, the real cause of the disease was overlooked and in a short time the Catarrh would return stronger than ever. Mr. Gauss has gone way ahead of the ordinary methods of treatment and has provided a remedy that

Removes the Cause

and Immediately Gives Relief to the Nose and Throat

Reese Jones, of Scranton, Penn., says that after trying many other treatments, he used this new method and—"My nose is now entirely clear and free and I am not bothered by the disease any more. The New Combined Treatment is worth its weight in gold."

Temporary relief from catarrh may be obtained in other ways, but the New Combined Treatment must inevitably be accepted for permanent results.

Sarah J. Cape, Mount Pelia, Tenn., says, "I suffered the pains and distress of catarrh for thirteen years and needless to state, tried nearly every method. But by your new method I was completely cured and you cannot imagine the joy that has come over me."

Trial Treatment FREE

This new method is so important to the welfare of humanity, so vital to every person suffering from any form of catarrh, that the opportunity to actually test it and prove its results, will be gladly extended without one cent of cost.

A large trial treatment, with complete, minute directions, will be sent free to any catarrh-sufferer.

Send no money, take no risks, make no promises. Simply clip, sign and mail the coupon and the test package of the New Combined Treatment will be sent, fully prepaid, together with the valuable book on Catarrh.

GIRLS! BEAUTIFUL, CHARMING HAIR, NO DANDRUFF—25 CENT DANDERINE

Try this! Doubles beauty of your hair and stops it falling out.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it. For sale by Riker-Jaynes and all good druggists.

La-Grippe and Colds

In La Grippe and Colds, Anti-kamnia (A-K) Tablets are unexcelled, as they stop the pains, soothe the nerves, and bring the rest so greatly needed by nature to restore the system to health. Physicians have used these tablets for over 20 years, in the treatment of colds, fevers and la grippe, and have found no other remedy more useful in these conditions. Anti-kamnia Tablets are so inexpensive, so pleasant to take, so satisfactory in their results, and so useful in all conditions where there is pain, that A-K Tablets should always be kept in the house for the time of need. Many of our ablest physicians obtain perfect results in la grippe and colds, by cleansing the system with Epsom salts or "Actoids," a very good cathartic, putting the patient on a limited diet, and administering one A-K Tablet every two or three hours. This treatment will usually break up the worst case in a day or two while in milder cases, ease and comfort follow almost immediately. These tablets are also unexcelled for Neuralgic Rheumatic Pains, The Pains of Women, Indigestion and Insomnia. All druggists have them.

Genuine A-K Tablets bear the AK mark.

CITIES GIVE JOBS TO WORKLESS MEN

Mayor Curley has sent notices to 800 more men whose names are on the city's list of unemployed advising them to report at once for work to the snow-shovelling forces now engaged in cleaning the city's streets.

Mayor O'Keefe of Salem expects to put 150 men at work constructing a swimming pool in one of the city parks.

In Cambridge, the city's employment agent is in close touch with the Board of Trade and an effort is being made to have private concerns offer more jobs. Mayor Good says the city is maintaining a free employment office, with a man on duty all the time, and mentions, as contemplated work, a water filtration plant, a general hospital, a new school building and an extension of the Tuberculosis Hospital.

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid Is Cause of Indigestion.

A well known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion is nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.—Advertisement.

"Mother" Jones Denounces Club Women
Miners' Wives Tell of Machine Guns' Work

More Testimony on Colorado Situation Is Given to the Federal Inquisitors.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—"Mother" Jones took a fling at the exclusive Colony Club after calling there today to see Mrs. J. Borden Harriman.

"I wouldn't live at the Colony Club for a million dollars," she said. "The women who go there are nothing but parasites. They are a lot of cats. They wear furs and furbelows and expensive hats. All they own is on the outside of their heads; there is nothing inside. Never again."

Mrs. Harriman is a member of the industrial commission which is holding hearings here into the troubles between capital and labor.

Mrs. Harriman is writing a book on labor conditions and asked Mother Jones to tell her some of her experiences among striking workmen. The appointment was made at the Colony Club.

"I went u pthere to see Mrs. Harriman," she said. "I went in and a great big flunkey in a gorgeous uniform opened the door for me and sent me into the reception room. I felt like a fool. Then a silly little maid came running to see if she couldn't wait on me. She soon found out she couldn't.

"There was a lot of women around and I just sat and looked at them. I never saw the equal in my life. They were all frills. Their hands were covered with jewels, the lifeblood of more than one poor wretch. Dirty parasites, I call them.

"GOT SICK OF TH ETALK."

"They sat and talked of clubs and theatres and clothes and money. I could have told them about a club that would be better for them. I got sick of hearing them talk. Mrs. Harriman met me and I transacted by business with rer and got out."

Among the members of the club are Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Mrs. John Astor and almost every society leader in New York.

When the commission on industrial relations met today Chairman Walsh announced that the hearings would probably be concluded on Saturday. Mr. Walsh added that it would probably be impossible to hear Andrew Carnegie and several other witnesses who had been invited to testify.

"The next work of the commission will be an investigation of transportation conditions, which will open in Chicago about March 1, said Mr. Walsh.

John R. Lawson of Colorado, an official of the United Mine workers of America, was recalled to the stand to explain sofe of his previous testimony.

"The impression seemed to get about that the United Mine workers of America are contract-breakers or lawbreakers," said Lawson. "I want to deny this." Lawson said there were about 3,000 local unions affiliated with the organization.

MINERS' WIVES TESTIFY.

Miners' wives described to the commission the horrors of the Colorado coal strike. They were the only two women who escaped from one of the tents in the camp at Ludlow.

Mrs. Mary Petrucci, whose three children were killed when the Colorado militia fired the tents at Camp Ludlow, told her experiences of that night. For an hour she held 400 men and women breathless with the story of how eleven children, ten men and two women lost their lives. Before she was through many were weeping openly. One woman sitting just beneath the witness flung an arm across her brow as though to ward off a blow. Others buried their faces in their hands as though to shut out the picture the young woman was drawing.

"When did you leave your tent on April 20?" she was asked. "I did not leave the tent at all. I just stayed there with the children all day. In the evening when the fire started we had to run out.

"I was sitting with my baby in my lap when I saw the fire and started out. I saw a lot of 'milit' under the water tank. They hollered to me to look out, and they were shooting at me. That scared me more than the fire. I suppose the 'milits' was twenty-five yards away from me when they fired.

HUDDLED IN CELLAR.

"Right back of our tent was tent No. 58. It had a cellar under it that was all nicely timbered and had beds in it. Women went there to become mothers. I ran for this cellar because on one side was my tent, which was on fire, and on the other was the 'milit's' firing. There were three women and eight children in the cellar when I got there. I had my baby in my arms and my little girl—she was two and a half years old—was holding on to my dress at the side, and my boy followed me. He was four years old. He would have been five years old if he had lived.

"When I got into the cellar, I told one of the women that they were burning the tents, and she said it was better where we were than trying to get anywhere else, because the 'milits' were shooting. It was no more than ten minutes till the tent over this cellar was on fire, too.

Both women were under fire throughout the Ludlow battle. Three of Mrs. Petrucci's children were smothered to death, with thirteen other persons, in the pit of the burned tent colony.

'IMPEACH WILSON IF NEEDED'; GUILD

"Even if impeachment is necessary that measure should be applied to prevent the President plunging us into the horrible and needless holocaust of a war with either of the two combinations of the Great Powers," says former Governor Curtis Guild, criticizing the attitude of President Wilson on the ship purchase bill. He says he will explain his position more fully at the mass meeting of protest against the measure in Faneuil Hall today.

"I am amazed to find how few people understand the gravity of the situation," says former Governor Guild. "Now that an officer of one of the billigerents boasts he has actually committed an act of war by blowing up a railroad bridge partly owned by an American corporation, possibly it may dawn upon New England that we are actually on the brink of the maelstrom.

"The purchase of the merchant ships that have changed their flags since the war began is in effect an act of war. The brains of the Democratic party, the Progressive party and the Republican party in the Senate alike appreciate this danger. The recklessness of the President has already pushed us into a needless little war with one individual, President Huerta."

SHE DARKENED HER GRAY HER

A Kansas City Lady Darkened Her Gray Hair and Stimulated Its Growth by a Simple Home Process.

She Tells How She Did It.

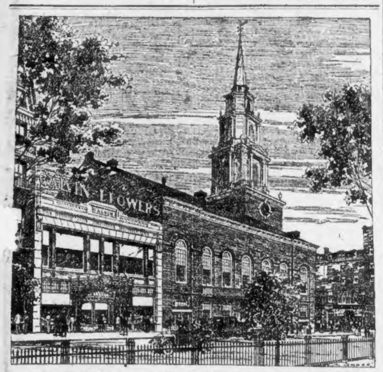

A well-known resident of Kansas City, Mo., who darkened her gray hair by a simple home process, made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray or faded hair, stimulate its growth and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe, which they can mix at home. To half-pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, 1 small box of Barbo Compound and 1/4 oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently, then every two weeks. This mixture relieves scalp troubles and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair. It does not stain the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray haired person look 10 to 20 years younger."

Quick, Safe Way to Remove Hairs

(Toilet Talks)

Keep a little delatone powder on your dressing table and when ugly, hairy growths appear, make a paste with a little of the powder and some water, apply and let remain on the hairy surface for 2 or 3 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs have vanished. This treatment is quite harmless and rarely more than one application is required, but to avoid disappointment care should be used to buy the real delatone.—Advertisement.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Look young! Nobody can tell if you use Grandmother's simple recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaker or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.—Advertisement.

A Man and His Wife

John's Wife Telephones to His Club and Misses Him

She could not escape as he came in at the door

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER IV.

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

IT was a new experience for Isabel Hamilton to pass an entire evening alone. As Isabel Davis she had been accustomed to this kind of thing—before she became engaged to John Hamilton. Tonight, musing over the events of the past year, she appreciated that for twelve months her evenings had been spent in John's company. She had simply taken his presence for granted. As her betrothed he had been at her beck and call. As her husband he had been her property during such hours as he had not been engaged at the office. He had become a habit in her life, and she resented his absence.

With a woman's capacity for self-torture she wondered if this was the beginning of the condition of affairs of which she had read in lurid tales of marital infelicities. There had to be a first time for everything—even for a man's neglect of his wife. Was this John's first time? Was he going to attend the club regularly?

She found that she was getting nervous and over-wrought, and called herself silly and fanciful. John had spoken the truth when he said that, as a member of an organization, it was his duty to appear there occasionally. Perhaps he would not repeat the visit for months.

As a bachelor, he had been a frequenter of the place, but of late he had had attractions in his own home that had kept him contented. Then she remembered that his home had not been especially pleasant this evening. She had been silent at the dinner-table and had not seconded her husband's efforts to make conversation. She regretted the cloud between them, but she had not been to blame.

If John had not been cross at breakfast, or even if he had apologized for the morning's display of temper, she would not have been quiet and sad. It was surely her duty to show him that he had erred. If he was too blind or too self-satisfied to see that he was in the wrong, that was his fault. Her skirts were clear.

When one is alone, self-justification is not always as much comfort as one could wish. The book that Isabel had thought would be interesting proved less absorbing than her own unhappy thoughts. At last she flung the volume down in despair.

"I can't fix my mind on anything," she muttered. "I might as well go to bed and get some rest."

SHE GOES TO BED, BUT CANNOT GO TO SLEEP

This she proceeded to do—at least she went to bed, taking as much time as possible in her preparations for the night, that she might not have to wait long in the darkness before John's return. It was after 10 o'clock when she at last lay down, but she did not rest. To be sure she did fall into a little doze a few minutes after she had put out the light, but she awoke from this with a nervous start as the clock on the small table at the head of her bed struck the half-hour. Usually the striking of this time-piece did not disturb her. Now the sound seemed to reverberate through the quiet room. Half-past ten and John still at the club! Oh, well, he would be at home by 11 o'clock.

But eleven struck, and half-past eleven, and twelve, and he had not returned. For a while Isabel was indignant, then she became anxious. What might not happen to him coming along the lonely streets all by himself? Perhaps he had been sandbagged and thrown into some areaway where he would lie wounded, perhaps dead, until morning, when the police would find him. They would see by the papers in his pockets who he was, and would call her up and tell her. How could she stand it? Oh, how could she stand it!

She sat up in an agony of fear; suddenly her mood changed. Was it possible that John might be having a good time at the club all this while? If so, she would give him a piece of her mind. But no, he would not be so cruel, so inconsiderate. Something must have happened to him. At what hour had he left the club? she wondered. In such an emergency as this there was but one thing for her to do. That was to call up the club and make inquiries.

She threw her bathrobe about her and thrust her feet into her bedside shoes, then hurried out into the hall where the telephone hung. With trembling hands she seized the directory and searched its columns for the number she wanted. Ah, here it was!

Some man at the club answered after she had waited for what seemed to her a long time.

"Hello!" he called as cheerfully as if it was midday instead of midnight. Somehow his matter-of-fact voice made the wife's act seem suddenly ridiculous to her. But it was too late to withdraw now.

"Hello" she returned in as steady and practical a tone as she could muster. "Can you tell me if Mr. Hamilton—Mr. John Hamilton—is there?"

"Hamilton? Just wait a moment and I'll go see," the voice informed her.

And she waited, her heart beating with nervousness and excitement. If John were there he would be displeased with her for calling him up. If he were not there—where could he be?

"Hello!" the voice said again. "No, Mr. Hamilton's not here. He was here, but he's gone."

"Oh, how long ago?" came the agitated question from Mrs. Hamilton.

"Wait and I'll go see," the unseen speaker said once more.

And once more the wife waited in suspense—but only for a moment.

"He's been gone only about ten or fifteen minutes," the man informed her. "I guess he'll be home pretty soon now," he added in a tone that may have meant to be comforting, but which brought the blood to the wife's cheeks.

"Oh, I'm not worried about him at all," she said frigidly. "I thank you for the trouble you've taken."

"Pray don't mention it," rejoined her informant. "Good night!"

"Good night!" she returned, hanging up the receiver with the consciousness that she had seemed like a fool.

Then a slight sound made her start and listen. It was John's key turning softly and cautiously in the lock. The telephone was in the hall. There was no time for the wife to disappear before the front door opened.

A French contemporary has been amusing itself by making a list of long street names. The Parisian record is the Rue des Pretres-Saint-Germain-l'Auxerrois, which is something of a mouthful, but is equalled by a thoroughfare in Brussels rejoicing in the name of the Rue de la Montagne aux Herbes-Potageres. A Pair of Sixes

A Story of Love and Laughter Based on the Great Comedy Success of the Same Name

SYNOPSIS

THE Eureka Digestive Pill Company is composed of two partners, George Nettleton and T. Boggs Johns. Nettleton inherited the business, and took Johns in because he invented an inviting purple covering for the pill. Everything would be all right if the partners were not insanely jealous of each other.

The scene opens with Jimmy, the office boy; Sally, the stenographer, and Krome, the bookkeeper, wondering how long the fighting will last. Tony Toler, chief salesman, announces that Applegate, president of the Northwestern Drug Company, will be in to sign a big contract. The partners are overjoyed and promise Tony a third partnership in the firm when the contract is signed. Mrs. Nettleton arrives, bringing Miss Florence Cole, with whom Johns is in love. He has a rival in Vanderholt, lawyer for the firm. Johns proposes and is accepted. In the other office Nettleton is telling his wife of the constant quarrels between him and his partner. When Mrs. Nettleton and Florence go, Nettleton furiously tells Johns he will dissolve the partnership. Johns cooly agrees, and Vanderholt is summoned to arrange the legal details.

JOHNS turned to the clerk with dignity. "And you can say to him that I'm just as anxious to see him as Mr. Nettleton is."

"Yes, sir. I'll try to make it clear to him."

Nettleton and Johns stood looking at each other from the open doors of their offices. If any one had been there to appreciate the situation it might have occurred to him that they presented the spectacle of a very cocky rooster disputing the right of way with a large, serene Newfoundland. But the situation did not look like comedy to Sally Parker or to Krome.

Sally gasped. "Krome, this place reminds me of the man who had both hands cut off."

"Well?" questioned Krome telephone receiver in hand.

"And then he got the hives!" giggled Miss Parker, and fell straightway to clicking her keys industriously.

"I guess this is the finish, Sally, for us!" mourned Krome, as he put up the receiver after summoning Mr. Vanderholt.

And upon this peaceful little setting entered Tony Toler and his star customer, Mr. Applegate, of the Northwestern Drug Company. Krome glanced with nervous apprehension from them to the private offices.

"Right this way, Mr. Applegate!" cried Tony with unction. "Our bookkeeper, Mr. Krome! Miss Parker, kindly announce Mr. Applegate," ordered Tony, exactly as if pretty Sally would not be ordering him around with equal facility at their little dinner that evening. "I want you to meet the members of my firm—a team! The finest pair that ever pushed a pill!" cried rash Tony, leaving the result of his suggestion in the lap of the gods.

"Ah, thank you, Mr. Toler. It will be a pleasure. A perfect partnership should run with the same degree of order as the home affairs of a happily married couple!"

Nervously Tony replied to that: "Yes—that's what we are here. Just one long honeymoon! Ah, here is one of the team. Mr. Johns, I have the honor to introduce"——

A GOOD "JOLLY."

But T. Boggs Johns, Esq., put him aside and hastened to grasp the hand of the prospective customer with the warmest kind of fellowship—that induced by the thought of a nice, fat check!

"Ah, Mr. Applegate, this is indeed a pleasure. Johns is my name and"—He interrupted himself as Nettleton appeared in the doorway of his office, and even while poor, hurt Tony dropped unnoticed into the background in mute astonishment he beheld the marvellous spectacle of one partner greeting the other like a very brother.

"Oh, come in, George!" called T. heartily. "Mr. Applegate, permit me to introduce my esteemed partner, Mr. Nettleton."

He patted his "esteemed partner" on the back and brought him forward while Tony began to beam again. It looked to him as if this finesse ought to be good for a fine large order.

"Have a seat, sir," welcomed Nettleton.

"Yes, do," said Boggs.

Both drew the same chair.

Bowing to both, Applegate accepted the proffered hospitality.

"Jimmy, my cigars," ordered Nettleton. "And pick up your feet."

"Don't trouble, George—mine are nearer!" beamed Johns. "Krome, get my cigars—my private box!"

Nettleton patted him on the shoulder. "No trouble, dear old chap! None in all the wide, wide world! . . . Ah, here we are!" as Jimmy entered with his cigars. "Have a cigar, sir!"

"Thank you! As I was about to say, gentlemen," began Applegate, but he was interrupted by the arrival of Krome with the second box of cigars. Johns fairly pulled the cigar he was just selecting from Nettleton's box out of Applegate's hand and proffered his own box instead.

"Pardon me, Mr. Applegate—I think you will find the flavor of these a trifle more agreeable. TOBACCO is the one point upon which Nettleton and I can never agree!"

Sally gave a little gurgle of laughter. Tony and Krome gesticulated frantically for her to stop, and Jimmy, standing at attention, looked on the whole strange performance with wonderment. And then, as he was sent back to Nettleton's office with the box of cigars, Jimmy took advantage of the serene atmosphere of the former battleground to supply himself plentifully with smokeables.

"Gentlemen, my time is limited. Let's get down to business," remarked Applegate.

"Happy to serve you in any capacity," chorused the partners.

"Good! It is a pleasure to transact business with two such enterprising, fine young men!"

A BIT OF NEWS

Nettleton smiled and bowed to Johns. Johns smiled and bowed to Nettleton. Tony beamed. Sally and Krome tried to appear calm.

"Your harmony of method appeals especially to me—a newly married man," concluded Mr. Applegate.

"What!" cried Nettleton delighted, grasping his hand.

"Congratulations to you and the lady. I have a very charming wife myself," beamed Nettleton.

"And I am about to have one," cried Johns.

"Delightful!" chuckled Applegate, laughing with them. "All three in the same matrimonial boat. But let's sail back to business. I'm interested in your remedy—through your very bright salesman, Mr. Toler."

"Thank you, sir," said Tony, advancing in the belief that his hour had struck. "And if I may dip in my little paddle, gentlemen. . . ."

Johns turned abruptly. "Don't come into the firm too suddenly, Tony!"

"The Northwestern is going to carry your line of goods. Give me a blank, gentlemen, and I'll sign our first Spring order for—well, say 50,000 gross."

"Thank you, Mr. Applegate," said Nettleton, swallowing hard to digest his astonishment. "Krome! An order blank!"

As Krome handed out the blank both partners reached for it—but Johns got it.

"No, no, T—let me!" cried Nettleton.

"Oh, I wouldn't trouble you for the world," said Johns, smoothly.

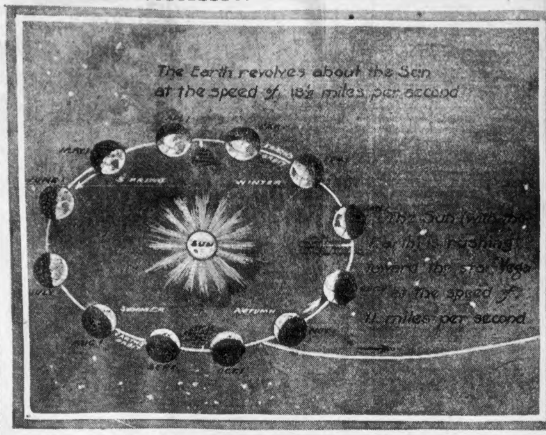

"No wonder you two have made a great success," ejaculated Applegate, and Tony sighed a long breath of relief as he watched a fountain pen come from the gentleman's pocket.

"Thank you," said Nettleton, largely, while something sent a spark to his eyes as he watched Johns filling out the order blank. "And while we are waiting I'd like to show you what I have done to perfect this pill. The ingredients are mine—a marvellous combination of effective, non-injurious drugs. The answer is our sales. Krome, give me the order book and report of our fiscal year, showing sales for the East and South."

Earth's Mad Onward Dance

With the Sun It Is Rushing at Terrific Rate Toward the Far Distant Star Vega

The earth in its relation to the sun, showing how our planet turns on its axis in its revolution about the source of its heat and light. Both sun and earth are flying through space toward the star Vega, so far from us that the mind cannot even grasp its distance.

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

THE earth's double motion is a source of never failing interest. The earth seems to be rushing up the steps of a mighty spiral stairway, which towers steadily through the abyss of the stars! The sun ascends along the axis of that spiral, which is like the core of masonry in the centre of a cathedral stair-well, and the earth winds about the sun as it mounts upward. "Up" and "down" are mere relative terms anyway, and they answer well enough to indicate the course of the solar system through space, which is no more accurately described by the usual statement that its direction is, roughly, from south toward north.

For every five miles that the earth progresses around the centre of the spiral it ascends three miles in the direction of the spiral's axis. The star Vega, one of the brightest in the heavens, lies not far out of the line of that axis. The velocity of the earth's (and sun's) motion toward Vega is about eleven miles per second, while the velocity of the earth's motion around the sun is about eighteen and one-half miles per second. In one year the earth advances 350,000,000 miles nearer to Vega, but because of the spiral shape of its path it has to travel about 680,000,000 miles.

Many curious consequences follow from the fact that our planet is thus forever voyaging onward through space. One of these consequences is that we have no fixed home in the universe. We keep in company with the sun, it is true, but it is only by chasing along with him, like a boy on a bicycle pursuing an automobile through a desolate stretch of country, where he is mortally afraid of being left alone. If the sun should abandon us, drop us out of his company, our case would be desperate, for we would be left without any light or heat. In a little while the zero temperature of open space would close in upon us, together with the universal night, and our last regretful sight of the life-giving sun would be a glimpse of a runaway star, rapidly fading from view in the glimmer of the Milky Way.

There is no danger, however, that the sun will shake us off, so long as the law of gravitation holds true. That is a pact that cannot be repudiated, and the smallest and most insignificant planet can absolutely depend upon it.

But, on the other hand, this mad rush through space, this planetary dance which the sun is leading, and which never stays in any place, has peculiar perils. All the other suns and solar systems are doing the same thing. Motion—wild, unceasing motion—in their very life! Some of them outpace us ten or twenty steps to one; others are soberly deliberate in their movements; but they are all going. They are the dancing electrons in the huge atom called the universe. And in their very motions resides the danger of collisions.

It is not the actual bodily encounter of flying suns that is to be feared so much as their near approach to one another. At short range their tidal attraction would have a rending force which nothing would resist. Imagine two warships which should possess some new kind of bottled force which would act upon an adversary like the paws of a grizzly bear instead of like the fists of a pugilist, which would tear asunder by force, differential pulling instead of demolishing by smashing blows—they would enact a tragedy resembling that which would result from the drawing near together of two great suns which would burst one another apart as if each had a mysterious grip upon the other's mid-rib!

Whenever we see a new star suddenly flaming out in the heavens we are, perhaps, the distant witnesses of the catastrophic approach of two wandering monsters of celestial space whose invisible tentacles of gravitative force are as fatal to whatever their touch falls upon as those of a devil-fish.

But, measured by the span of human existence, these catastrophes of space are so excessively rare that nobody need be troubled about them. They have only an intellectual interest.

As to the conviction of the immeasurable profoundity of the star depths which the onward motion of the earth produces, it is only necessary to consider one plain fact. The brightness of a star varies with the inverse square of its distance. If we approach twice as near it will be four times as bright. Now, the earth has been travelling nearer and nearer to the star Vega for, say, 5,000 years since men began to notice that star and to call it by a distinctive name and to compare it with other stars. In those 5,000 years the distance of the star has diminished in consequence of the earth's approach toward it, and also of its own motion hitherward, not less than seven millions of millions of miles, and yet there is no evidence that it is a sparkle brighter today than it was 5,000 years ago! How gigantic must be that distance which is not appreciably affected by being shortened seven millions of millions of miles! But there are millions of stars vastly more distant than Vega.

WHY NONE OF US CAN HELP BEING VEGETARIANS.

Even though our diet consists almost wholly of animal food, vegetable matter is really at the bottom of it, as Dr. Leonard Keene Hirshberg explains in this very interesting article.

LOUVAIN TEACHER TELLS OF PILLAGE

"Panic seized the German forces in Louvain when retreating comrades poured into the city on the night of August 25, and they began firing at one another," declares Professor Charles Jean de la Vallee Poussin, one of the professors from Louvain, who is teaching at Harvard. He saw nearly 400,000 men pass through the city.

No citizens were killed and those left in Louvain did not fire on the Germans. There was no sniping by the Belgians.

"Then German pillage started in the houses where the inhabitants were away for the Summer and the empty ones were sacked. Once when I was standing at a window I was shot at. The bullet went through the window and into the room above me where my children had been but a few minutes before.

"At the Court House I met General Manteufel, and he told me the Germans did not need hostages any more, but that the whole town must be evacuated, because the Germans were going to bombard it at once. The people left, but the Germans did not bombard it. It was just a trick, as they wanted to pillage the city systematically."

Mrs. Astor Aids Jobless Joins Bundle Day Staff

Mrs. Vincent Astor, who is taking active interest in New York movement to help the workless.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Mrs. Vincent Astor, whose husband inherited a $70,000,000 estate from his father, Colonel John Jacob Astor, displayed her first activity in a big charitable movement yesterday. She twice called at the headquarters of the bundle day committee which today will collect a great quantity of clothing for the poor of the city.

Mrs. Astor entered into the work with much vim. With Miss Frances A. Keller, also a member of the committee, she made a tour of the various stores. She was the centre of an interested group while she was in the building. Other members of the committee expressed pleasure at the interest which she showed in the work. Mrs. Astor said she would be on hand today when the bundles came in.

After leaving the bundle day headquarters Mrs. Astor said:

"Next to providing the people with employment this is the best thing we can do for them now. Of course it would be a greater help to give them work, but helping them to dress so that they can keep warm and are able to apply for work is the next best thing.

"Then by having bundle day we also are giving many of the unemployed work to do. We expect to employ eighty women here, forty in the morning and forty more in the afternoon. They will mend and repair the garments brought in. There also will be work for the men pressing suits and mending shoes.

MRS. HEARST AIDS MOTHERS' BILL

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 4.—Chances of triumph for the Mills-McCue widowed mothers' pension bill were enhanced after appeals by Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Mrs. William Einstein and Miss Sophie Irene Loeb. Mrs. Hearst and her associates came up from New York through snow and sleet and devoted nearly the entire day to beseeching legislative leaders to help mothers keep fatherless children out of demoralizing institutions and at home.

They were promised cordial co-operation by Speaker Sweet, who pressed a similar bill to passage in the Assembly last session; Democratic Assembly Leader Smith and Chairman Hopkins of the Committee on Social Welfare, to which the bill has been referred.

Mrs. Hearst, Mrs. Einstein and Miss Loeb received their most encouraging assurances during a conference with Speaker Sweet, Republican Assemblyman Hinman and Democratic Leader Smith.

When Mrs. Hearst and her companions saw the President pro tem of the Senate, he protested that the State could not afford to expend a single additional dollar.

"It is not asked to do so," urged Mrs. Hearst. "All that is asked is that the widowed mothers be helped to bring up their children properly, keep them out of institutions and their families together. Is there any objection to that?"

"None that I am aware of," replied Senator Brown. "I shall carefully consider the bill and do all I can to protect the mothers, families and the State treasury as well."

"There is no doubt of a favorable report of the bill by the Assembly committee," said Chairman Hopkins of the Committee on Social Welfare. "We shall have a hearing next Tuesday. I believe soon after that the Assembly will pass the bill."

John Lee Saves Tennis Grounds

Through the instrumentality of John H. Lee, one of the leading residents of the district, the triangle at the corner of Chestnut Hill and Commonwealth avenues has been saved for the use of tennis players. Recently the city planned to sell the lot against the opposition of near-by residents with whom it was a favorite recreation spot in the Summer months. Finally Mr. Lee interested himself in the matter and persuaded the city council to retain the property for public use.

Harvard Fights for Right to Use Crimson Banners

The first steps in the [illegible] to exempt Harvard's crimson [illegible] from the operation of the law that forbids the carrying of red flags in parades will be taken [illegible] at the State House when the petition of Senator Beane will be heard by the committee on legal affairs.

The red flag law was said to be aimed at the I. W. W. Its application to college banners was not thought of until labor agitators, it is declared, wanted to kill the law by enforcing it, brought up the point.

Harvard men after the Princeton game consulted with members of the faculty of the law school, and Professor Joseph H. Beale took the lead in their campaign, with the result that Senator Beane introduced his petition.

'La Francaise' to Be Given at Toy Theatre

Because of the general request for a play of the modern type, the Theatre Francais Company at the Toy Theatre will give Brieux' play, "La Francaise" on Saturday night, instead of "Le Danseur Inconnu."

"Perrichon" is to have an additional performance at the Friday matinee, at the request of many who wish to see it.

'Race Prejudice' Is Scored by League

The Massachusetts Branch of the National Independent Equal Rights League, meeting at No. 49 Cornhill, passed a resolution calling the attention of the American people to the present "epidemic of race prejudice against colored American citizens by the United States Congress under sectional domination."

South Boston Yacht Club Holds Dance

The forty-seventh annual ball of the South Boston Yacht Club was held in Paul Revere Hall, Mechanics Building, with Commodore John J. Tobin and Mrs. Tobin leading the grand march. Following them came Vice-Commodore and Mrs. Richard E. Beckert, Rear Commodore and Mrs. Henry Hawkins and Fleet Captain and Mrs. James P. Holland.

Octogenarian Takes Bride at Rockport

ROCKPORT, Feb. 4.—William N. Manning, eighty-two, was quietly married to Miss Louise Bryant, forty-six, formerly of Round Pond, Me. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. F. E. Barton.

URGE FEDERAL SHIPPING AID

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The formation of a federal shipping board and a marine development company, the company to be capitalized at $10,000,000, to advance funds to buyers or builders of steamers and the board to supervise shipping, are advocated in the report of the committee on merchant marine submitted today to the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The administration ship purchase bill is declared to be wrong in principle.

"Your committee [illegible] that owing to the world's shipping conditions government aid is absolutely essential to upbuilding our merchant marine and we recommend it be freely and adequately given," says the report. "We believe the proposed government plan of purchase or construction, even if operation is avoided by chartering to private persons, is wrong in principle and unwise if the result sought can be secured by private initiative supplemented by reasonable government aid."

An analysis of the new federal trade commission and a forecast of what it will accomplish in the business world were given by Joseph E. Davies, retiring commissioner of corporations.

"It holds promise of great aid to American business and of greater security for the liberties of our people," said Mr. Davies. "It is an attempt in an industrial era of great competition to translate the spirit of Faneuil Hall into terms of present-day freedom."

Three Things Necessary in Treating Skin Diseases

Cadum, the well-known remedy for Eczema, pimples and other skin troubles, does three things: It stops the itching; it forms a light covering over the sore places on the skin, thus excluding air and water, and it sets up the healing process. In many instances you can see and feel a distinct improvement in less than twenty-four hours. Cadum is such a good remedy that a list of each ingredient it contains is printed upon each box. People who buy a remedy are entitled to know what it is made of, so they can talk to their doctor about it if they desire. Secret remedies are going out of fashion, and Cadum was among the first to show just what it is made of. Get a 10c box of your druggist and try it. The 25c size contains nearly four times as much as the 10c size.

Civil War Veteran, Ill, Hangs Himself

LEOMINSTER, Feb. 4.—William H. Martin, seventy-five, a Civil War veteran, committed suicide today by hanging himself in a barn in the rear of his home on Manchester street. He left the house at daybreak and when he failed to come to breakfast, his daughter, Nora, nineteen, searched for him and found him with a rope about his neck, hanging from a rafter. Martin had been in ill health for a long time. He is survived by a widow, four daughters, and a son, who is in the United States army.

Cushing Calls for Policewomen Corps

Lieutenant-Governor Cushing, in his annual report as president of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, says that the organization is protecting more than 72,000 children a year. He urges that a corps of policewomen be appointed to protect young girls from immorality.

CATARRH CAUSED BY A GERM

Must Be Destroyed Before Catarrh Itself Can Be Cured, Says Specialist. Wonderful Results from Breathing Medicated Air.

Medicine taken into the stomach will never cure catarrh. And neither will the sprays, douches, lotions, creams and other temporary reliefs that so many catarrh victims make a habit of using. To cure catarrh so it won't come back you must first drive from your body the millions of germs that are flourishing in the inner recesses of your nose and throat and are causing the disease.

There is a preparation which does this called Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me). Hyomei is a germ killing vaporized air formed from the purest oil of Eucalyptus combined with other healing and antiseptic ingredients. You breathe Hyomei through the mouth and nose by means of a little hard rubber inhaler which druggists furnish with it. This medicated germicidal air penetrates into every fold and crevice of the mucous membrane of your nose and throat, kills the catarrh germs that lodge there, soothes, reduces and heals the swollen inflamed membranes, stops the discharge and opens up the clogged nose and air passages in a truly wonderful way. It gives blessed relief in five minutes from catarrhal distress of every kind and if you make a practice of breathing Hyomei for a few minutes each day for just a few weeks not only will all the symptoms of catarrh vanish but the disease itself will be a thing of the past. No one need try or buy Hyomei on pure faith. Riker-Jaynes Drug Stores and many other leading druggists in Boston and vicinity sell it with the positive guarantee that it must cure catarrh or that the money paid for it will be refunded. Hyomei is very inexpensive and with this protecting guarantee behind your purchase there is absolutely no reason why any sufferer from Catarrh should not give it a fair trial.

ANSWERS TO BEAUTY QUESTIONS

By CLAIRE AINSWORTH,
The Notedly Beautiful Singer.

Miss Muriel: The corrective method of massage to promote firmness of flabby cheeks, double chin and the ugly wrinkles which accompany weak tissues is fully described in the directions which are with each bottle of gloriol tonique astringent. Try this special treatment before despairing and I am certain you will rejoice.

Mrs. T. B. writes: "I wish you would be kind enough to give me the formula for a good home-made hair tonic. I am losing my hair and it looks dull. My scalp itches all the time."

Answer: Simply get one-half ounce powdered hairwand in a sealed package. Empty into a pint bottle. Fill the bottle with soft, pure water, shake well and apply with the tips of the fingers, thoroughly massaging the scalp. Also dampen the hair with it and you will soon note a most beautiful change. Avoid anything containing alcohol.

Answer to "Mrs. P. C.": I have frequently advised the taking of five-grain phythyrin tablets to reduce abnormal fatness, and judging from the many favorable and thankful letters I have received, this is the most effective and harmless remedy extant. These tablets are the result of exhaustive experiments conducted by physicians. After the first week or two the reduction is usually rapid.

C. W. D. writes: "I am vain enough to want to improve my appearance by filling out the hollows in my neck and shoulders. Also would appreciate advice on how to round the bust and arms."

Answer: Dismiss the thought that you are vain. It is the duty of every girl and woman to always appear at her best. A regular massage with medicated venosol each night according to directions which are to be found in each tube will soon fill the hollow places and round out the bust and arms to normal. Use the patting and rotary massage movements. Many actresses and society women indorse this treatment.

Mrs. D. B. asks: "What can I do to keep my hair up? In spite of my care it comes down in short, ugly strands all about my face and neck."

Answer: Try using gloriol wavolene. I use it regularly as do many of my correspondents. It keeps the hair in curl or wave for days at a time and is said by many to promote a natural curl and wave if repeatedly used.

Note: If the reader does not find the information wanted in the questions answered above, just address a letter to Miss Claire Ainsworth, 40 Patterson Bldg., Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope, and she will gladly advise on health and beauty problems. The articles and preparations mentioned are on sale by all wholesale druggists, large retail and department stores; or any accommodating dealer can obtain them for you. William Faversham

Famous Actor, says:

"A pipe of Tuxedo keeps me feeling physically fit and in good spirits, and, because it is mild and doesn't bite, it is pleasant to the throat and keeps my voice in good tone."

William Faversham

Tuxedo Keeps You Physically Fit

Every playgoer has remarked the virility and clean-cut vigor of William Faversham, both as an actor and as a man. No matter what part he is playing, he always presents a figure of alert strength and keen wits. His voice is especially engaging, clear, carrying and sonorous.

For Tuxedo tobacco to gain a testimonial from such a man, stating that it helps to keep him "physically fit and in good spirits" and keeps his voice "in good tone" goes far toward convincing you of Tuxedo's wholesome, all-round value to you.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

Tuxedo will put snap and vim into your daily work. It's an inspiring tobacco that will keep you fit as a fiddle, full of zest, hearty and happy and hale. You can smoke it all day long, and each succeeding pipeful will glow with greater cheer.

Try Tuxedo for a week, and you'll like it forever.

FRANKIE MACK IS MADE 3 TO 2 FAVORITE OVER BUTLER FOR LAWRENCE GO TONIGHT

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTING NEWS

RED SOX TO OPEN SEASON AGAINST THE ATHLETICS ON MACK'S HOME GROUNDS

Bringing Up Father

By George McManus

MACK IS MADE 3-2 FAVORITE OVER BUTLER

By JACK CONWAY.

A spirited ring battle is expected when Frankie Mack and Walter Butler, the rival Beachmont lightweights, exchange punches in a twelve-round tussle before the United Cycle Club in Lawrence this evening. The contest has aroused a tremendous amount of interest and a record breaking crowd is sure to turn out to witness the festivities.

Jim Crilley, manager of the Lawrence organization, has made preparation to care for a capacity house. He believes that the bout will draw a bigger crowd than has attended a boxing match in Lawrence since Gilbert Gallant fought Steve Kennedy.

The Beachmont and Revere friends of Mack and Butler will journey to Lawrence in special cars. A large delegation of Boston "fans" are also planning to witness the contest. They will make the trip to Lawrence by train.

Mack rules a 3 to 2 favorite in the betting. It is believed that his superior ring skill and great speed will enable him to outpoint Butler.

Butler, however, is the kind of fighter who will make things interesting for the best of the local lightweights. He is an aggressive youth and packs a sweet punch in each hand. He has been traveling at a merry clip during the past year and has won from such rugged performers as Eddie Flynn, Jack Donnelly, Charley Beyers, Jimmy Quinlan, Joe Farren and Billy Burke. He recently classed with "Young" Dyson in Gloucester and the majority of the newspaper men who witnessed the encounter declared that Butler had the best of the going.

Sports or Studies Harvard Question

Harvard's freshmen athletes are not keeping up in their studies and President Lowell is looking into the matter. The Harvard head and Dean Yeomans are at present trying to work out a system which will limit the tendency in freshmen athletics to engross too much of the time and attention of the players and at the same time not handicap the development of teams which may compare favorably with freshmen teams of other colleges.

Decision Saturday in Baseball Suit

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Ban Johnson, president of the American League, announced today that he had received a telegram from Judge Landis in Chicago, in which Landis told him that the decision in the baseball suit would be handed down Saturday. The suit was instituted by the Federal League, which charged that organized baseball was operating in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

CARDS HOPE TO SAVE A BIG SUM

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 4.—Schuyler Britton, president of the St. Louis National League Club, can find one source of consolation over his 1915 baseball outlook and that is the certainty that he'll have close to $20,000 less to pay out to players.

When Magee, Perritt and Wingo departed they left a salary uplift of at least $15,000. Had they been retained at the figures they asked this year it would have been a cost of over $20,000 to the Cards. Also Britton is not permitted to hand out any 15 and 20 per cent. bonuses for performance this year, the league objecting. This should save his club in the neighborhood of $12,000 to $15,000. Allowing for three new men at an average salary of $4,000, to be acquired in place of the dear-departed, "Sky" will be in pocket in the neighborhood of $20,000, right off the bat.

The club may do quite as well next year, despite the loss of the trio, Britton thinks, although Perritt and Magee will be missed.

In any case, the National League boss argues that the club was discredited for nearly half of last season and did not attract good "gates" until late in the season. With fair success this year, Britton sees an opportunity to cling to a little coin—more net profit than last season.

Carson-Morgan Draw.

DERRY, N. H., Feb. 4.—Tommy Carson of Lawrence and Joe Morgan of Manchester went ten lively rounds at 125 pounds in the final bout before the Nutfield Athletic Club in Broadway Hall.

"The Rabbit's" Column

By Walter J. Maranville

SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

President Tener has called a meeting of the National League for next Tuesday in New York.

The old organization had a birthday on Tuesday. Thirty-nine years ago the National League was formally organized at a meeting at the old Broadway Central Hotel, New York. Represented at the meeting were Boston, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Chicago St. Louis, Louisville, Hartford and the old New York Mutuals.

There have been some changes in baseball since the league was organized, eh boys?

* * *

The meeting of the National League next week will be the annual schedule meeting. The schedule will be given out next Wednesday, it is expected. The Braves will open at Fenway Park on April 14 with the Phillies. If the schedules follow their usual course we will not take our first Western trip this year until June, all of April and May being spent either on home grounds or on visits to New York, Brooklyn and and Philadelphia.

* * *

Nearly all the experts say the Braves will win the pennant again. That, too, is my dope. But there are a lot of people believe that the Giants, strengthened with Lobert on third and several promising new pitchers and catchers, will be in the hunt all the way. The Cubs, with Roger Bresnahan at the helm, are also considered dangerous while many good judges believe that Brooklyns will be first division factors.

* * *

If the Cardinals lose Lee Magee and Pol Perritt, their chances will be decreased in spite of Manager Huggins' whistling methods, but they are expected to outclass the Phillies, Pirates and Reds.

But I look for a good race. You never can tell about these pennants.

* * *

Next to hitting that old pill Sherwood Magee would like to shine as a stealer of bases. The very fact that Magee hits the ball as hard as he does is a handicap to him in his base-running aspirations. Funny, isn't it?

* * *

Sherwood explains it in this way: "During a season I make something like sixty-five doubles, triples and home runs," he says. "Every time that I make a hit for extra bases I lose a chance to steal a base. The light-hitting player whose safe hits are confined mostly to singles has it all over a slugger when it comes to the base stealing records."

* * *

"The time when Honus Wagner made his best mark as a base stealer was when he had Claude Ritchie batting back of him on the Pittsburgh team. I don't want to take any credit away from Honus, but really Ritchie helped Wagner lots of times in pilfering second base. Ritchie would stand at the plate with his bat held shoulder high and almost over the home plate. This made it very difficult for a catcher to throw the ball to second base.

"The catcher's view of second base was obscured and he either had to throw over or under the bat. Pat Moran tells me that when he was with the Chicago club he was driven wild trying to figure out a scheme to get ahead of that Wagner-Ritchey combination. If any catcher ever found a way to beat it I never knew it. Yes, sir, a clever batsman like Ritchey was can help a man on first base a lot when it comes to stealing the middle sack.

How would you decide this play?

Ans.—The pitcher wa sa wise old bird.

* * *

McGraw hopes that big Jeff Tesreau was stalling through the recent tour of the all-star team of the National and American Leagues. The bear strangler won only four and lost nine games on the trip.

* * *

Art Shafer says he will never cover third for the Giants again. Hans Lobert seconds the motion.

* * *

Remember the manager's contest closes Saturday. Keep on sending in your selections, boys. The winning combination may not be in yet. I will pick out a few letters at random to print every day, but will not begin to judge the lists until Monday.

And I can see I will have my work cut out, too.

* * *

Problem Plays for Fireside Fans (not by Billy Evans)—The Braves need one run to win and the bases are full, two are out and Hank Gowdy comes to bat.

The pitcher turns and throws the ball over the fence.

Here are some of the teams as selected by readers of this column:

Woman Handicapper for Girl Swimmers

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Miss Katherine F. Mehrtens, president of the National Women's Life-saving League, has accepted the position of official handicapper of the women swimmers registered with the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U.

In addition to handicapping the women, Miss Mehrtens will act as a commissioner, and will sit with the local registration committee when they meet to weed out of the amateur ranks all the water maids who are professionals.

Sutton Beats Yamada.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 4.—George Sutton defeated Koji Yamada, 300 to 130, in a national championship Billiard Players' League game here at 14.1 balkline.

NOT TO REDUCE PLAYER LIMIT

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—After holding down large and comfortable chairs for four or five hours in the lobby of the Hotel Belmont, some forty odd scribes from various parts of the United States were ushered into Parlor B and informed that the American League moguls, who had been in session, had the following to announce:

The league had elected to membership Messrs. Ruppert and Huston, the new Yankee owners.

The 1915 schedule had been adopted as drafted.

The league had decided to carry twenty-five players after May 25. The twenty-two player rule was voted down.

The matter concerning the lifting of the draft in A. A. organizations had been left in the hands of President Ban Johnson.

The National Commission will meet Saturday, either in Chicago or Cincinnati.

The league will do everything possible to stop the use of the "emery ball."

The league will issue two cards to all players that they may entertain their friends at any of the eight parks.

Ban Johnson has received word from Chicago that Judge Landis would announce his "trust" decision on or before aSturday of this week.

Rumors of trades of all brands were in circulation, including those that Ty Cobb, Joe Jackson, "Lefty" Hamilton and others were coming to the Yankees. President Ruppert took particular pains to announce that Fritz Maisel would not be traded.

The moguls undoubtedly discussed the Federal League situation, but refused to confirm anything that was reported they had said.

Joseph Lannin, owner of the Red Sox, did tip it off that the International League would continue business this year. Also he declared that the threatened invasion of the Federal League in New England cities was a joke. He declares that men who are trying to interest Jim Gilmore are promoters who have absolutely no financial or influential backing.

Every one of the eight cities in the circuit were represented as follows:

Clark Griffith and E. S. Minor, Washington; Robert L. Hodges, St. Louis; Frank Nevin, Detroit; Charles A. Comiskey, Chicago; J. J. Lannin and William Carrigan, Boston; Connie Mack, Philadelphia; Ernest Barnard and Jose Birmingham, Cleveland; Colonel Jacob Ruppert and Captain Til Huston, New York, and President Ban Johnson.

Seven Games on Penn Tennis Schedule

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 4.—The schedule of the University of Pennsylvania tennis team was approved by the athletic authorities as follows:

May 5, Haverford; 8, Princeton; 15, Navy, at Annapolis; 20, Michigan; 21, Harvard; 28, Dartmouth; 29, Cornell, at Ithaca.

Baltimore Fight Fans Clamor for Kilbane's Scalp

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 4.—Baltimore fight "fans" are wildly clamoring for Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, to meet either Kid Williams, bantam champion, or George Chaney, the Baltimore "Knockout King."

The showing Williams made in handing Eddie Wallace a terrible lacing in Brooklyn, going out of his class to turn the trick, and Chaney's walloping of Peckey Rommey of New York in this city at the same time, has set followers of the two local battlers by the ears and they can see nothing but Kilbane's scalp dangling at the end of either of the Baltimore pair no matter which Kilbane elects to go against.

Henry Bletzer, Chaney's manager, has offered Kilbane a purse of $8,000 to go twenty rounds in Baltimore.

Big Bill Buckner Out.

AURORA, Ill., Feb. 4.—Big Will Buckner, known in baseball circles all over the country as the colored trainer of the Chicago White Sox, has lost his position as trainer of the West Aurora High School, because of action taken today by the local school committee barring all paid coaches and trainers in the future in any of the Aurora high schools.

Egg and Verri Win Chicago Bike Race, Smashing Records

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Oscar Egg of Switzerland and Francesco Verri of Italy won the six-day bicycle race here, with 65 points, covering a distance of 2,504 miles and 8 laps and beating the world's record, set in New York last year, of 2,751 miles and 9 laps.

Jimmy Moran of Boston and Reggie McNamara of Australia were second with 58 points, and Clarence Carman of Jamaica and Frank Corry of Australia were third with 34.

Rindge Track Team Seeks Title Honors

Coach Joe Smith of the Rindge Tech School track team is developing a "championship" squad, which he expects will give all school teams a good bucking for the first prize in any outdoor meets.

The crowd out is the best lot that has reported to the coach for years, and among the most promising, outside of Captain Stevenson and Ralph Emmerson, are Samuel Gibson, C. Langford, W. E. Robinson, L. Haswell, P. D. Washington and W. Rose.

VERMONT FARMS AWAIT BELGIANS

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—A novel offer for the relief of war refugees was made here today to the Belgian Relief Committee. The Egg Mountain Orchards, a corporation owning two thousand acres of land near Egg Mountain, Vt., will welcome Belgian farmers to cultivate its extensive fruit ocharts on a liberal share basis.

There are several houses on the property, which the Belgians can use, and the settlers will be allowed to cut all the timber they need for additional buildings.

The corporation will pay wages to the Belgians at the standard rate, and in addition give them twenty per cent of the proceeds if they work on the planted orchards. If the settlers wish to cultivate the land for themselves, they may do so, paying the owners thirty per cent of the net returns.

The corporation employs an expert pomologist, who will instruct the Belgians, but it is hoped that they will be men who have been employed on the land in their own country.

In addition to fruit raising, the Belgians will find several streams stocked with fish, and there are 20,000 rock maple trees which ought to net a profit of fifty cents a tree. There is a large deposit of slate on the land, which can be worked to show a profit. The company will tend to the disposal of the entire output of eggs, game, poultry, vegetables and fruit.

The Belgian committee has taken the matter under advisement.

Bremner Called His Nurse 'Angel-Pure' Her Sacrifice Praised in Love Letters

"Dear, Good Girl," Quoted in the $75,000 Suit Against Congressman's Estate.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Some of the hundreds of letters alleged to have been written by the late Congressman Robert G. Bremner, of Paterson, N. J., to Miss Theodora Nash, who nursed him through his fatal illness, were furnished to the AMERICAN by the young woman's attorney, Warren Dixon, of Jersey City.

Miss Nash is suing the Bremner estate for $75,000. Her attorney said the missives were made public to offset insinuations that she was an adventuress.

The letters show the deep respect and affection that sprung up between the sick man and the girl who strove to restore him to health after he had been stricken with cancer. The Congressman's heroic fight against the deadly disease attracted nation-wide attention.

LATE CONGRESSMAN BREMNER.

MISS THEODORA NASH, NURSE.

Mr. Bremner's veneration for his faithful little nurse is shown in this sentence in one of the letters:

"No one who ever saw the purity and truth of that white soul could help loving you."

SOME OF THE LETTERS.

The letters are written mostly on scraps of papers and are undated. They follow:

Tuesday Afternoon.

Dear Angel-Pure Sweetheart:

It was so good to hear the Senator talk about you all this morning. I dare say he did willingly for I know he likes you and admires you very much, but if ever the conversation went off on a tangent I took care that it soon returned to that orbit of Theo—the orbit of peace and joy and happiness.

He told me of having seen you Sunday. He laughed and laughed when I said I had not seen you for a long, long, long time. "Why, that is what the kid said. You both are well rehearsed, but neither of you can lie. I never saw you yet that these fibs did not stick in your throat."

He said that you admitted that you had seen me.

"DEAR, GOOD, TRUE GIRL."

Dear good true girl! How sweet are thoughts of you. All the time blessed memories arise and fill me with happiness and delight. How good you have been to me! How patient, how considerate I muse and marvel, dear heart and only hope some day joy and peace may crown your long suffering and cheerful endurance.

I have to use this paper sweetheart. Some one is at this desk talking to me every minute. It is not a letter, but rather an excuse to send you an envelope so that you will know your boy is thinking about you.

Be a good, good girl. Be sure and walk out each day. Go to Mrs. Brinkerhoff's occasionally—often I think you should for your meals. How are you getting along with your Shakespeare? Your poem is in tonight. A letter came in commending your letters. Write more. Hope to see you soon. I do, I do, I do. Good-by, dear, good, true, noble pure girl.

Answer, BOB.

Friday, P.-M.

Dear Angel Heroine—Just a line to say how happy and glorious a day it has been. Your special delivery has not arrived, and it's 3 o'clock now. Dear girl, you know how I regard money. Put a little in your bank; I'll add to it. You feel better and more independent. And pay some of the debt you are going to pay now with a check. If it is ever so little it keeps you feeling better and more independent. Try it, dear girl.

Did you ever know a year ago that the new year would mean so much?

Am going to see the trunk sewer works now. You are the grandest, sweetest, truest sweetheart in the world. As ever.

ROBIN.

WEARS HER ROSE.

Tuesday, 1 P. M.

Blessed and pure one:

Have waited a little while for Muriel and more anxious to get your dear letter than to see her—not slighting her at all, but I would be more anxious to get that letter than see anyone. And the rose, too, girl, I'll wear it while it lasts and then keep the leaves.

5:30 P. M.—Have just returned from the Hohokus races, wishing you were there. I went up with Dr. Armstrong—just we two.

Muriel just phoned. She got a train that di not stop in Passaic. She is going to mail the box. She said Senator was down when I was away. How did Muriel make you feel?—Did she put you in bad humor? Did she taunt and provoke my little girl?

As to Thursday. I don't know how I can get up. But perhaps I can. Anyhow, Girl, I'll be alone if I am not with you and you know what I'll be doing—I told you.

Every day two dozen or so come coaxing me to be a candidate for Congress. I have given them no encouragement. You'll know first. How sweet, helpful your dear letters are. What a fountain of cheer and happiness you are. Who could help loving such a brave, true girl. I couldn't. As ever, ROBIN.

"EXQUISITELY BEAUTIFUL."

Monday, p. m.

Dearest:

In a hurry as usual. Oh, what sweet memories! How terrible it was to see you go away and you never looked behind! I watched and watched. How sweet and neat and exquisitely beautiful you looked! Everybody was admiring you, I know. Anyhow, there was one who not only admired, but loved.

Muriel phoned yesterday afternoon and explained she did not get your letter, for she had not been to Mrs. Kemp's for four days. She is going to the Catskills with Mrs. Dalzell.

I'm off to meet Hughes in Paterson.

Where shall I call up—what number? I fear I make it hard for you. Good-by, dear, true, brave, noble, angel girl. As ever,

ROBIN.

NEW FEATURE IN SUNDAY AMERICAN

Dainty Dorothy Darling is a maid of high degree,
Who mingles mirth with melody wherever she may be.
The secret of the spell she casts is Dottie's tuneful fancies—
For Dottie simply has to sing whenever Dottie dances.
And every voice joins in with hers while everybody's dancing,
And shortly even grandpapa upon the floor is prancing.
You can't escape the joyous spell, and your excuse is ample.
The proof? Well, here's the first—a Dorothy Darling sample:

In all this chatter about women meeting the "right man," what's the matter with meeting the "Right Girl"?

The Boston Sunday AMERICAN will present the "Right Girl" to you next Sunday, and her name is Dorothy Darling.

Dorothy is a "pip." Dorothy dances. Dorothy does more. She sings while she dances. The bit of verse at the top of this article tells you how Dorothy gets 'em all started singing with her.

Dorothy is the heroine of a new series of bewitching pictures and of melodious songs which are to be printed in the Sunday AMERICAN. The series will begin next Sunday under the engaging title: "The Dance Song of Dorothy Darling."

The series will provide you with art and music both, for with the picture will be printed the full piano score of the "Dorothy Darling Songs." There will be a new song every Sunday and the first one is called: "My Heart's So Full of You." Pretty music, isn't it? And the music is just as pretty.

The music is printed so that it can be cut out and folded in regular music sheet fashion for your piano. All you have to do is to play and sing and turn the pages.

The picture of Dorothy Darling is enough to make the average young man feel a distinct dent around the heart region. Dorothy is a most likeable maid, a winsome bundle of girlhood. Made to be kissed, just as sure as two and two make four.

The words for the "Dance Songs of Dorothy Darling" are by Carolyn Wells, the gifted verse writer. The music is by Charles Elbert, who has a clever touch at romantic composition.

The first of the "Dorothy Darling" songs is a combination one-step and hesitation in time, so it will be right up to the minute for the new-step dancers.

Between the art of the picture, the poetry of the words, the lilt of the music and the provocative measure for dancing, the new Dorothy Darling series starts as an all-around gift, to suit many tastes.

Place your order now for the next Sunday AMERICAN, so you will be sure to meet Dorothy Darling and become acquainted with her dance songs.

"Dorothy" means "Gift of the Gods," and "Darling" means what it means. She is well named.

Women Rush for Embroidery Outfit

Even yesterday's zero weather did not prevent several hundred women from braving the storm to get the AMERICAN'S Embroidery Pattern Outfits.

But they were amply rewarded for their trouble after arriving home and opening the big envelope each outfit comes in.

And then, spread out before them, each one found a veritable embroidery treasure trove; over 200 hot-iron transfer patterns of the very latest designs; an all-wood beaded embroidery hoop of special clasp design—a beauty; ten skeins of embroidery silk and floss in assorted colors and a pamphlet of full instructions showing just how to do all of the embroidery stitches.

What a treat for embroidery workers!

With the ground hog come and gone, Spring and Summer embroidery work is the next important topic for New England women-folk.

And the AMERICAN'S Embroidery Pattern Outfit is indeed a treasure for any woman that does embroidery.

Just think of it! Beautiful designs for shirtwaist fronts, shirtwaist decorations, lingerie sets, sprays for women's garments, jabots, collar and cuff sets, doilies, hand bags and over 200 other pattern of every description.

Just one word of caution: clip the coupons without delay. Thousands of women were disappointed a few weeks ago when the AMERICAN'S suppy was utterly exhausted.

This will certainly happen again—and soon—so don't YOU be among the late ones who are certain to be disappointed.

Read all about the AMERICAN'S splendid embroidery offer—read it NOW on today's Magazine page—and act before it is again too late.

City Building to Give Work to Many

Razing the old Probate Court building in Tremont street to make a site for a $300,000 municipal structure, will be begun on March 1. Mayor Curley issued this order after a conference with a delegation from the Central Labor Union, in order to furnish employment.

Business Notice.

TO REDUCE DANGEROUS VARICOSE VEINS

People who have swollen veins or bunches should not wait until they reach the bursting point, which means much suffering and loss of time, but should at once secure from any reliable druggist a two-ounce original bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength).

By using this powerful, yet harmless, germicide treatment improvement is noticed in a few days, and by its regular use swollen veins will return to their normal size and sufferers will cease to worry. The Emerald Oil treatment is used by physicians and in hospitals and is guaranteed to accomplish results or money returned.

It reduces all kinds of enlarged glands, goitres and veins, and is used exclusively in many large factories as an unfailing first aid to the injured as an antiseptic. Moone Chemical Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Sound Tire Logic!
Why spend your good money for "SECONDS" of various unknown makes when you can buy
Walpole Tires
for about the same price?
I purchased from the Receivers of the Walpole Rubber Company their entire stock, which was almost six thousand tires, and was given to understand they were made to sell at a higher price than any other American tire manufactured.

Professor Ripley of Harvard Tells a Story

Read It and Remember It When Anyone Tells You That the Government Cannot Operate Our Railroads Better Than They Are Now Being Operated.

Professor William Z. Ripley of Harvard University last week wrote a brief history of the New England railroads during the past ten years.

Citizens who are inclined to believe that the public might not manage our railroads better than they are now managed in the hands of private bankers, speculators and manipulators ought to read Professor Ripley's story.

Professor Ripley tells the gruesome story grudgingly. There are few radicals at Harvard, and Professor Ripley is not one of them. While the acts which he relates were transpiring he was silent. Neither his voice nor the voice of any of his associates was raised to swell the protest which the AMERICAN was making against the crimes our railroads were committing under orders from Morgan and his Wall street confederates.

The AMERICAN quotes Professor Ripley's "chronicle" because it is in the nature of a confession from a friend of the railroads. We urge our readers to consider the facts it states and then say whether the worst political ring in America could do worse than was done with these New England railroads. Please remember that this is not a solitary case which never happened anywhere else in the country or at any other time in New England. It is a TYPICAL case, which has happened often before everywhere in the nation and several times in New England. MOST of the huge private fortunes in America have been made by just such treatment of the railroads.

When you have read Professor Ripley's story, then please consider the building of the Panama Canal by the national government, the establishment of the parcels post by the national government and the conduct of our public school system, involving the yearly expenditure in Massachusetts alone of more than twenty million dollars.

The AMERICAN quotes part of Mr. Ripley's story:

"The projected New Haven combination broke down utterly because it was an attempt to create a monopoly regardless of cost. The financial plans were not only reckless in the extreme, but in many respects dishonest as well. It is the same old tale, repeated time after time, of the bankruptcy which is bound to follow improvident financial management. It is one thing to acquire competitors in the interest of the economies attendant upon monopoly at fair and legitimate prices. It is quite another matter to purchase them, as the management was aptly described by an observant banker as doing, 'like a drunken millionaire,' regardless of first cost and reckless as to the fixed charges or the effect upon free income available for the development of public service.

"Both the financial and operating management of the New Haven under the Mellen-Morgan regime was more than unwise; it was corrupt. Nor did this corruption stop at secret profits to insiders. Despite the fairest promises of abstention from politics, every principle of political decency was violated down to the last moment of control. Wholesale bribery, veiled in various ways, of members of the Legislature, of the press and of influential citizens, was resorted to, in a vain endeavor to jam through legislation and stem the rising tide of outraged public opinion. Corporate accounts were falsified; unearned dividends were declared; solemn engagements of every sort were broken." * * * Lasting obloquy should attach to the name and reputation of every one, from the president down, responsible for this great financial catastrophe.

"One of the most depressing aspects of the New Haven collapse was the entire absence of a sense of accountability on the part of the administration, either to the public on one side for transportation service, or to the shareholders on the other for protection of their investment. No obligation of trusteeship is apparent either in the financial or operating department.

"The local constituency, whether of merchants or travelers, was persistently offended by blundering attempts to sacrifice the interests of New England to those of New York. The axiom that you cannot operate a line in an enemy's country was entirely disregarded. It seems to have been believed that a campaign of falsification, and subornation of perjury, coupled with a dash of bluff and bluster, could be relied upon to deceive the intelligent public, in the face of a complete breakdown of service and an obvious and growing financial strain."

Spending for Useful Ends Is the Best Thrift Today

Never was it truer than at this moment that the prosperity of this people is in their own hands. By their own act they can hasten the end of the existing depression and speed the arrival of unexampled prosperity. That end and that arrival are certain to come in any event, but a widespread determination to cast off the fetters which doubt and apprehension have put upon us in the past will hasten the day.

The war, coming fast on the heels of faulty tariff legislation, spread far and wide the seeds of business distrust and individual apprehension of hard times. Thrift, a virtue in its place, was carried to the point at which it became a vice. Prudence developed into niggardliness; men ordinarily forehanded became misers; the ancient maxim was amended to read: "Take care of the pennies and look up the dollars out of use."

The result has been a FINANCIAL STRINGENCY NOW HAPPILY FAST DISAPPEARING, AND BUSINESS DEPRESSION FOR WHICH NO REASON LONGER EXISTS.

It is time for people to resume again the habits of life and of business which characterized Americans before this depression set in. We do not counsel extravagance, but we insist that niggardliness is no longer either necessary or helpful—not even to the person practicing it. If the more than 400,000 persons, for example, who buy the AMERICAN every day would each loose into the channels of trade $10 in the next two weeks for things they really need, but have, through fear for the future, been trying to do without, they would be better off, business would be appreciably stimulated, and its revival would be felt by those who thus contributed to it. If the millions of readers of the Hearst newspapers throughout the nation should follow a like course they would be making a positive contribution to the trade and prosperity of the nation.

At a host of points millions of men and women have been saving each a little beyond the normal amount of saving. By so doing they have reduced demand, stifled trade, shut down factories, lessened employment and spread destitution and distress far and wide.

Whatever excuse there may have been for pinching economy and abnormal hoarding—not thrift—has vanished. Our business has adjusted itself to war-time conditions. Both in this country and abroad stocks are exhausted and replenishment necessary. If our people will resolutely thrust aside the spectre of distrust and take up again life as they have been accustomed to lead it, buying the goods that are needed for home, farm, factory, shop or office, each will be surprised at how quickly he will find his own enterprise mirrored in that of his neighbor, and out of the sum of combined individual activities general business activity will be renewed and stimulated.

THE TRUEST THRIFT TODAY IS A WISE AND LIBERAL EXTENSION OF EXPENDITURES FOR USEFUL PURPOSES.

The Rule of Reason

By ELBERT HUBBARD

MAN is a reasoning being, but seldom reasonable.

Usually his logic is used as a means for protecting a prejudice.

A man cannot view anything as apart from himself. Everything he sees has a relationship to his own safety and his own welfare.

Things he likes, he will approve; things he fears or dislikes, he will condemn.

That which brings him profit is right. That which brings other people profit is wrong.

Auguste Comte wrote a book entitled "Pure Reason." Three years after the writing he added a chapter stating that the thing didn't exist.

Once a farmer wrote a hot letter to Sears, Roebuck & Co. complaining in grieved and sarcastic phrase because they had neglected to ship the hames among other goods he had ordered.

Then as a postscript to the letter was this: "The hames I found all right in the bottom of the box."

* * *

Once upon a time, in a careless moment, General Winfield Scott Hancock made a truthful remark, thus: "The tariff is a local issue."

And, behold, the remark was taken up and printed in black face type in a thousand newspapers as proof of the ignorance of the General, who, at that time, happened to be a candidate for the Presidency. And the remark, it is believed, brought about the defeat of the remarker.

The moral of this is that one had better think twice before stating the truth, and then whisper it to himself.

Self-protection is the first law of life.

Gustave Le Bon, in his wonderful book, "The Crowd," says that race instinct is the strongest and most persistent tendency of the human mind.

As long as a man can remember the country from which his ancestors came, he will feel a patriotism toward that country which he does not feel toward any other.

In case of a dispute or a war he will instinctively side with the country from which his ancestors came.

And the argument is that any truth that collides with race instinct, religious instinct, sex instinct, business interests or social status is going to receive a severe jar before it is finally accepted.

* * *

We resent any truth that threatens on seemingly threatens our mental, social or financial condition. And in the face of social danger, reason and logic are barren idealities.

Hence the necessity, when a witness in a court of law is placed on the stand, of ascertaining who this witness is before we lend credulity to his statements.

* * *

In "Spaulding on Evidence," there is a chapter devoted to the relative reliability of the testimony of women as compared with men.

Spaulding also has something to say of the testimony of doctors, preachers, lawyers, harlots. Spaulding explains that men of the same profession will always instinctively protect one another.

Every experienced judge realizes the inability of even intellectual people to see the whole truth, much less to tell it.

An eminent college professor, who may be the last word in biology, would probably be capable of expressing only one view of the military situation, and that the view of the country in which he was born and lives.

* * *

Just here comes in a story about Immanuel Kant, who was very absent-minded. Passing a beautiful garden, enclosed by a high iron picket fence, the professor paused and peeked through the keyhole of the lock of the gate.

Asked why he didn't look through the pickets he made a logical sidestep and explained that beauty inspected through an aperture was more pleasing than when gazed on en masse.

Man's Duty to Teach Wife to Be His Partner

Husband Should Be Willing to Make All Sacrifices Necessary to Lay Solid Foundation for Happy Home, Says Ella Wheeler Wilcox

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

SINCE the home is the foundation of the nation, it is well worth while for individuals who establish homes to make some personal sacrifice of time and impulse to create a solid bed rock for that foundation.

The lover finds it easy to show an interest in the most frivolous or feminine accomplishment of his lady love; to admire her embroidery; to listen to her singing or to help her fix up her booth for a charity bazaar. And whatever she says or does wins his attention. Why not continue that attitude after marriage and give the wife the happy sense of co-partnership in all her doings?

Every wife, as a rule, is ready to be taught something of her husband's business or professional affairs; enough to make her understand his ambitions and sympathize with his trials. But it is only the occasional wife who has the perception to understand the delicate difference between sympathizing and interfering with a man's affairs. Perhaps it is because of this danger of interference that so few men make their wives acquainted with their business lives. And this is a point on which women need training.

A tactful man can so train the woman he loves, before marriage, by praise of other women who have shown the art of helping their husbands by the right attitude of mind and the right methods of action. Surely there is nothing too much trouble, nothing too time-taking, which may lead to a successful marriage! It is the important work of the human race. For what is the worth of successful art or successful business, what is the power of peace, power and prosperity in a nation, what is the use of international arbitration unless that nation is founded on happy, clean, harmonious homes?

One danger which menaces the American and menaces happy home life is the alarming tendency of the present generation to avoid parentage.

Young married people in good health, with good brains and bodies to transmit to offspring, and wives who might be the proud mothers of statesmen or beautiful daughters, frequently impair their health and beauty rather than accept the responsibilities of motherhood.

Here again we find the reflex action of mind; for often these wives are daughters of mothers who have borne too many children and have missed the happiness of youth and the relaxation a perfect home should give in the never-ceasing cares of a large family. I do not know what the statistics state regarding the relative number of divorces among childless people and those who are parents, but I do know that Nature intended marriage to be followed by parentage as naturally as Summer follows Spring.

And I know that even the sad experience of motherhood which lasts but a few brief hours often makes a new and indescribably sacred bond of affection between man and wife. There are many happy marriages where no children are, it is true, yet the wife who has never felt the stirring of a little being under her heart has missed one of life's and love's most wonderful experiences.

They walked the valley of the dead
Lit by a weird half-light;
No sound they made, no word they said;
And they were pale with fright.
Then suddenly from unseen places came
Loud laughter that was like a whip of flame.

They looked, and saw, beyond, above,
A land where wronged souls wait
(Those spirits called to earth by love,
And driven back by hate);
And each one stood in anguish dumb and wild,
As she beheld the phantom of her child

Yea, saw the soul her wish had hurled
Out into night and death
Before it reached the Mother world,
Or drew its natal breath
And, terrified, each hid her face, and fled
Beyond the presence of her unborn dead.

And God's Great Angel, who provides
Souls for our mortal land,
Laughed, with the laughter that derides,
At that fast-flocing band
Of self-made barren women of the earth.
(Hell has no curse that withers, like such mirth.)

"O Angel, tell us who were they
That down below us fared;
Those shapes with faces strained and gray,
And eyes that stared and stared;
Something there was about them gave us fear;
Yet are we lonely, now they are not here."

Thus spake the spectral children; thus
The Angel made reply:
"They have no part or share with us,
They were but passers-by."
"But may we pray for them?" the phantoms plead.
"Yes, for they need your prayers," the Angel said.

They went upon their lonely way
(Far, far from Paradise);
Their path was lighted with wan ray
From ghostly children's eyes—
The little children who were never born;
And as they passed the Angel laughed in scorn.

In-Shoots

If you are a married man it is safer to snore than talk in your sleep.

When all others fail booze can always give the pugilist the knockout blow.

The person of very limited vocabulary can often provoke a lot of trouble with it.

If you think that your troubles are interesting topics of conversation, listen to some other fellow's woes for a season.

When a man is stubborn and acts pleasant about it, it's a waste of time to attempt to convert him.

The divorce court generally will knock the spots off the ideal husband theories.

The verdict of the coroner's jury never affords any satisfaction for the subject of the inquest.
